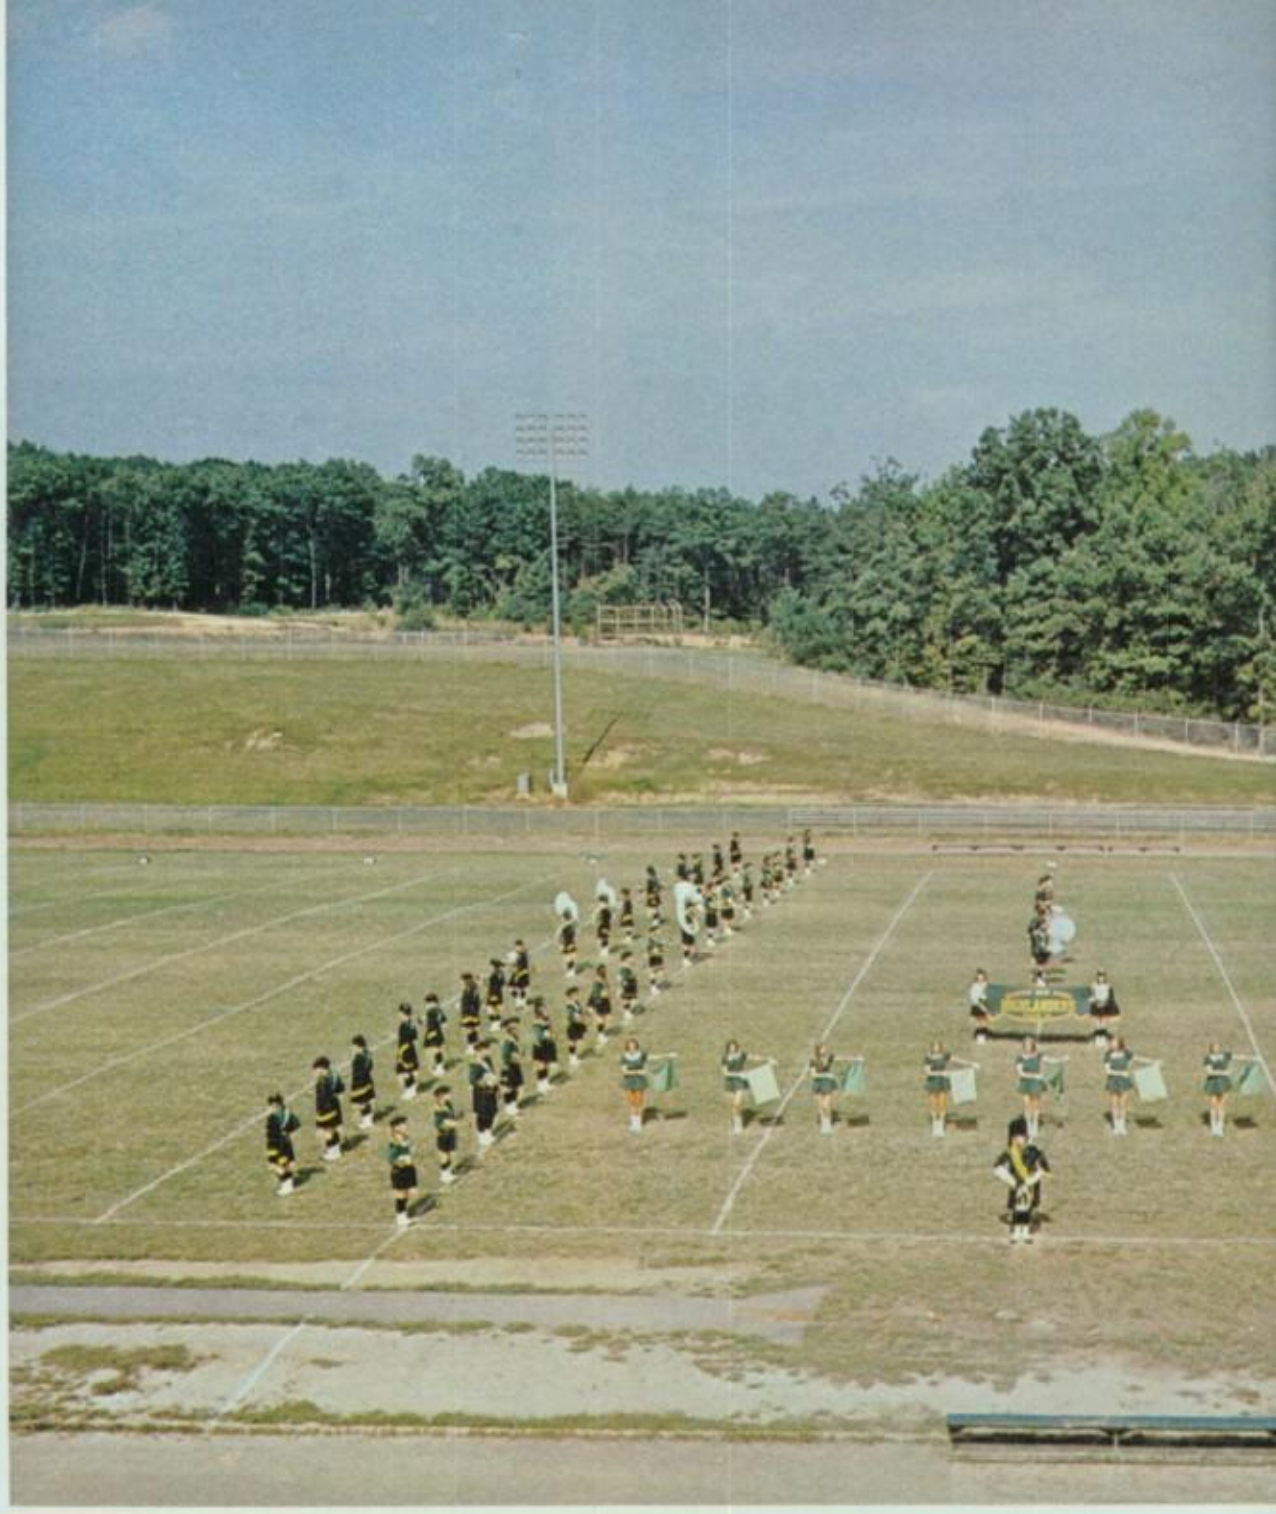
A Dynamic and Enlightening Development Begins



A powerful and unified school is created when every individual learns the importance of his being; a being that is unique and possesses its own capabilities, prejudices, philosophies, and talents. When one appreciates oneself and respects the difference in others, a dynamic and enlightening development begins.

This development involves an exchange of attitudes and ideas among people with vast backgrounds and ideologies who are groping for light and answers in our dark, opaque world. They are learning to speak out for their convictions and give of themselves in support of a cause.

It is a wise and brave person who can listen to others with contrasting opinions and acknowledge the good points. If all the students and teachers strive to be open-minded and fair, Glenvar will benefit from the harmonious interaction.

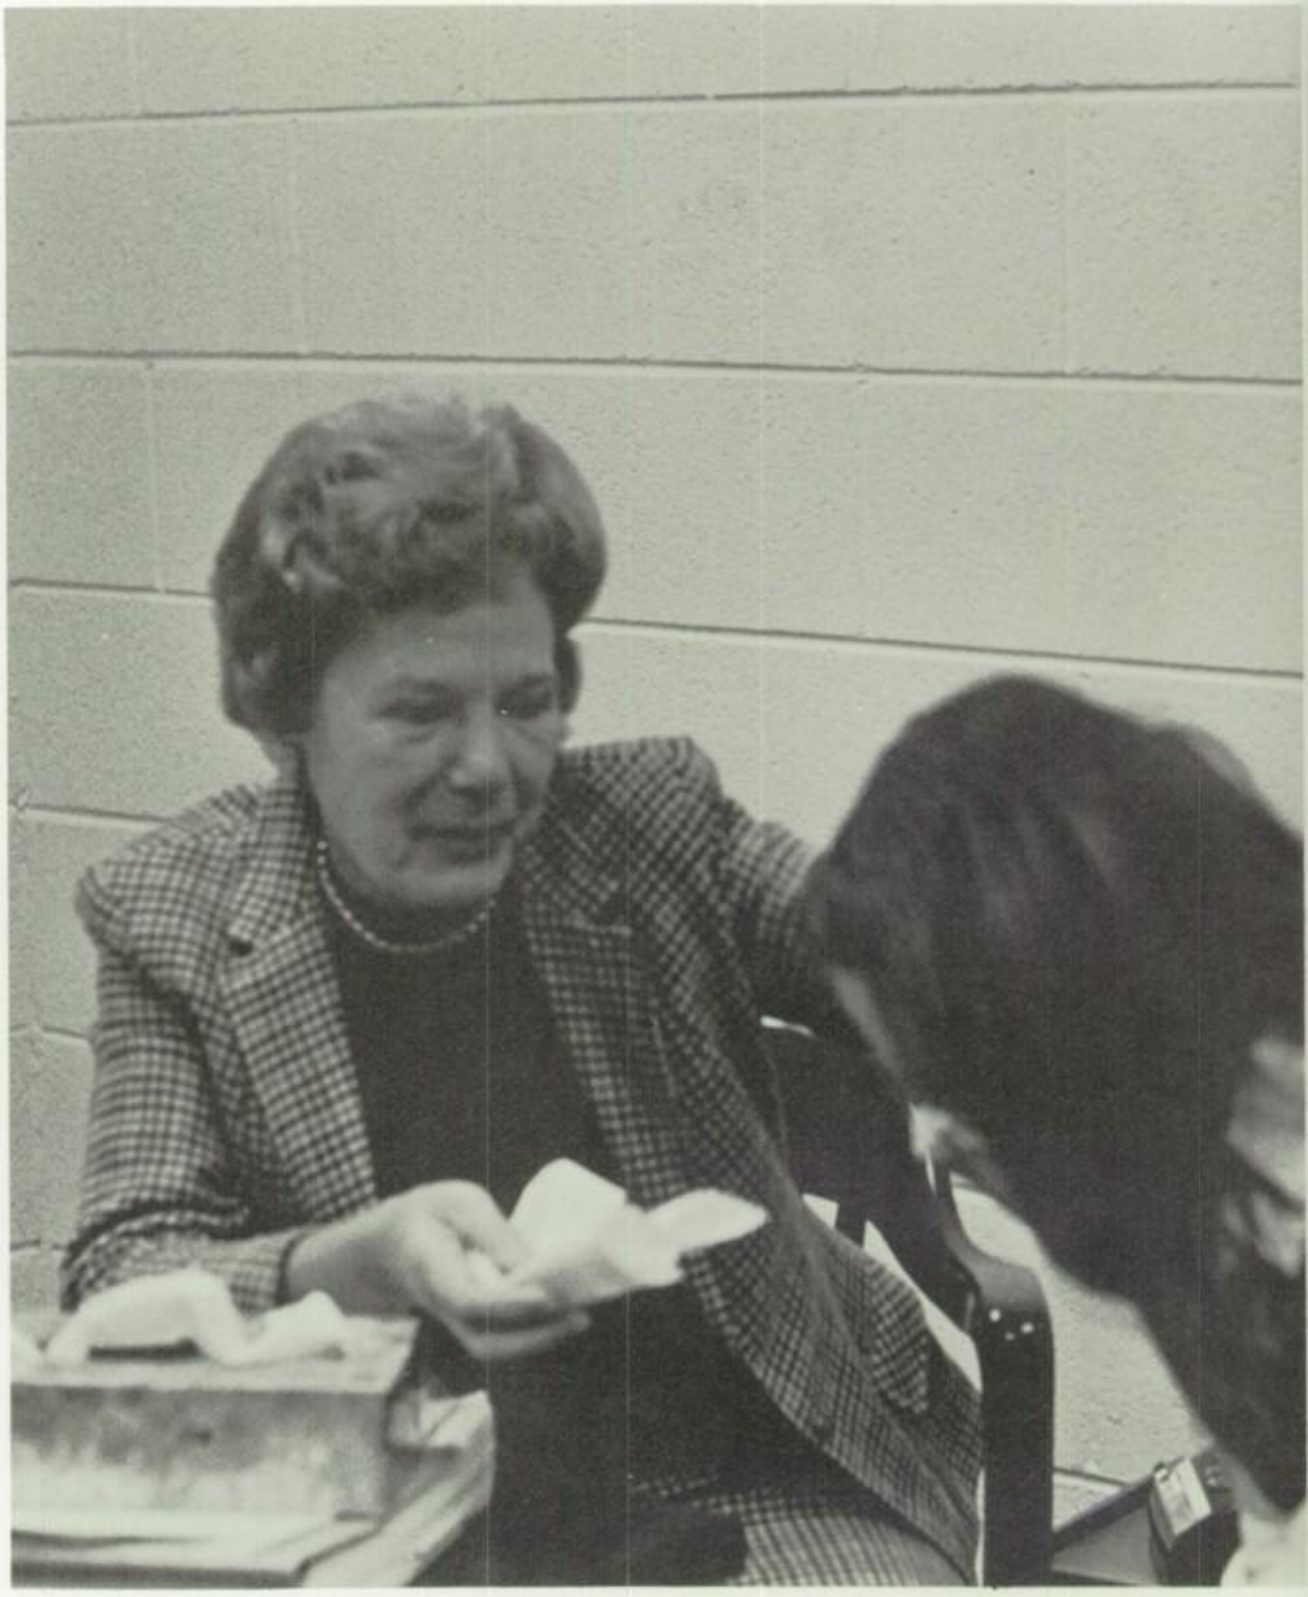
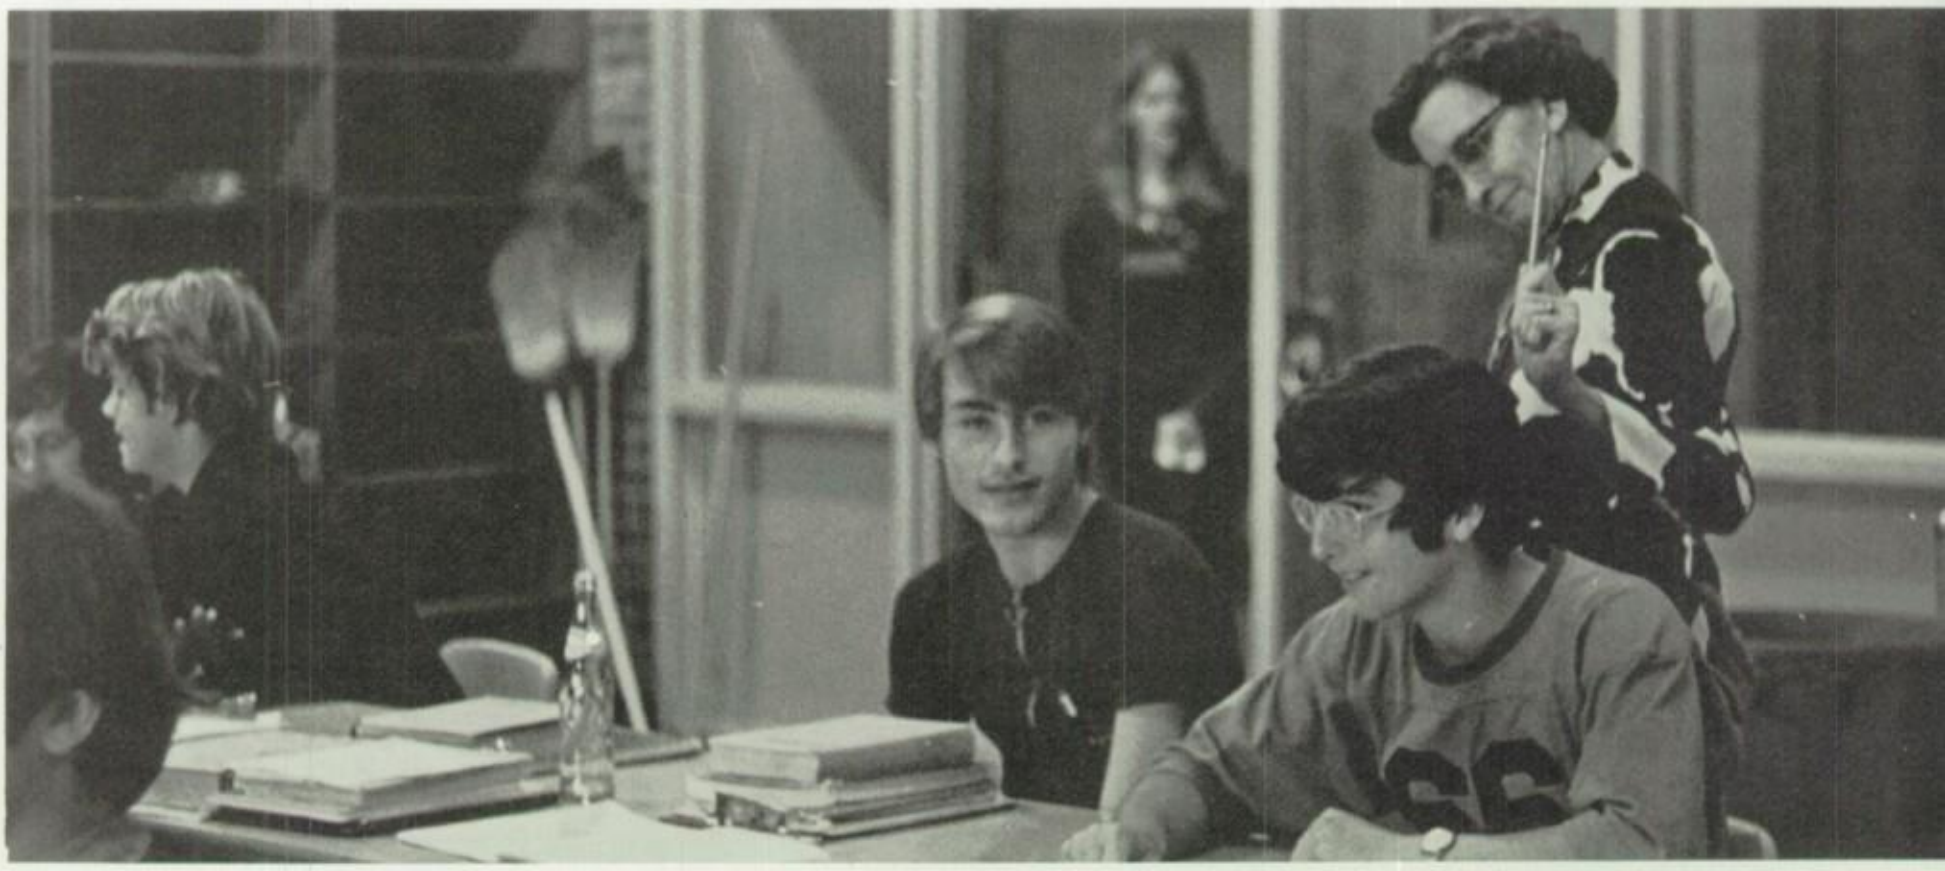
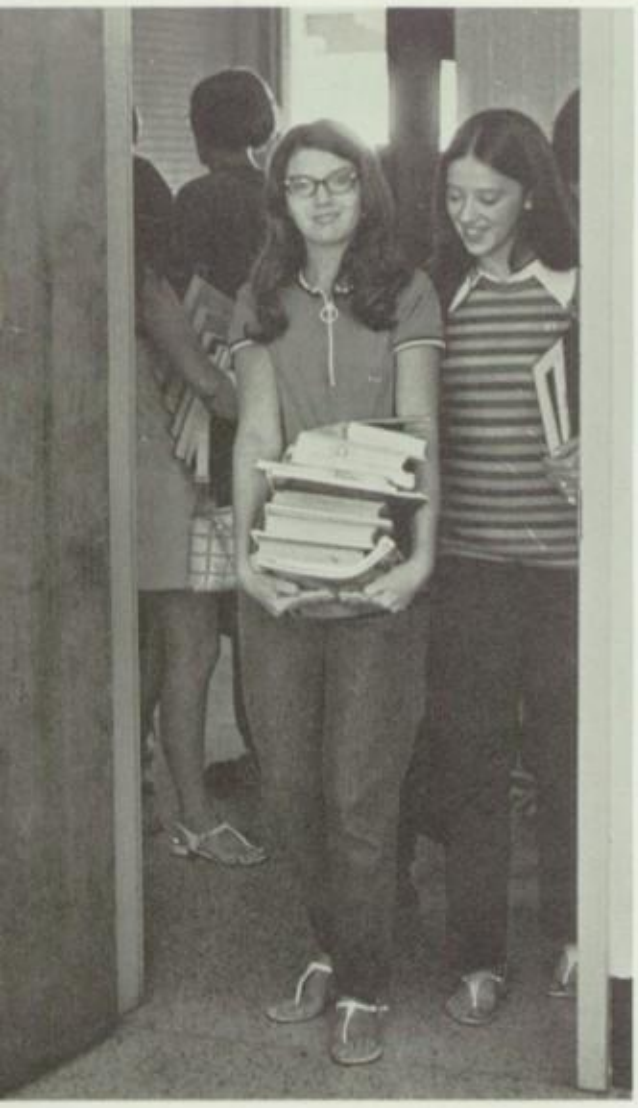
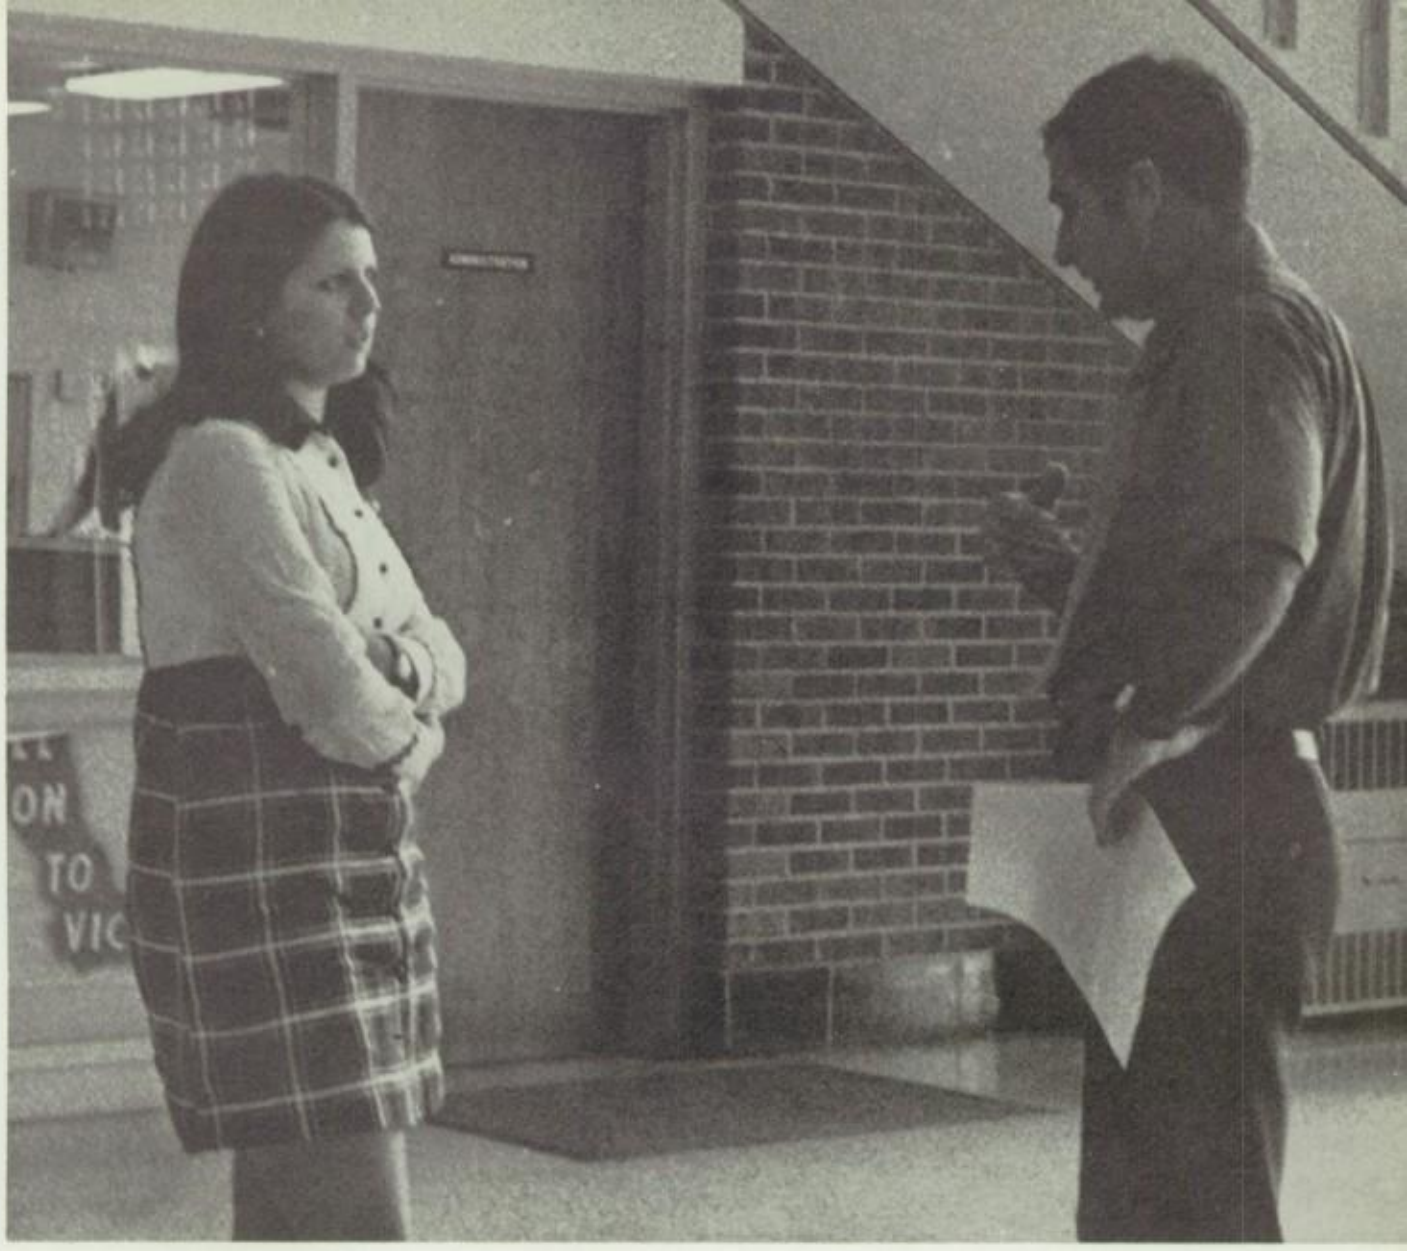
Open Study Halls are a Welcome Break in Routine









Not only did students and teachers express their thoughts, but they gave their talents to improve Glenvar. Athletes struggled through many exhausting hours to train their bodies for competition. Members of the band and choir practiced to arouse an interest in spirit and music. The teachers spent many hours improving their techniques in order to spark interest in their classes.

The enthusiasm generated by the teachers and students initiated the exchange of knowledge. With this exchange came the realization that every individual has "so much to say—so much to give".

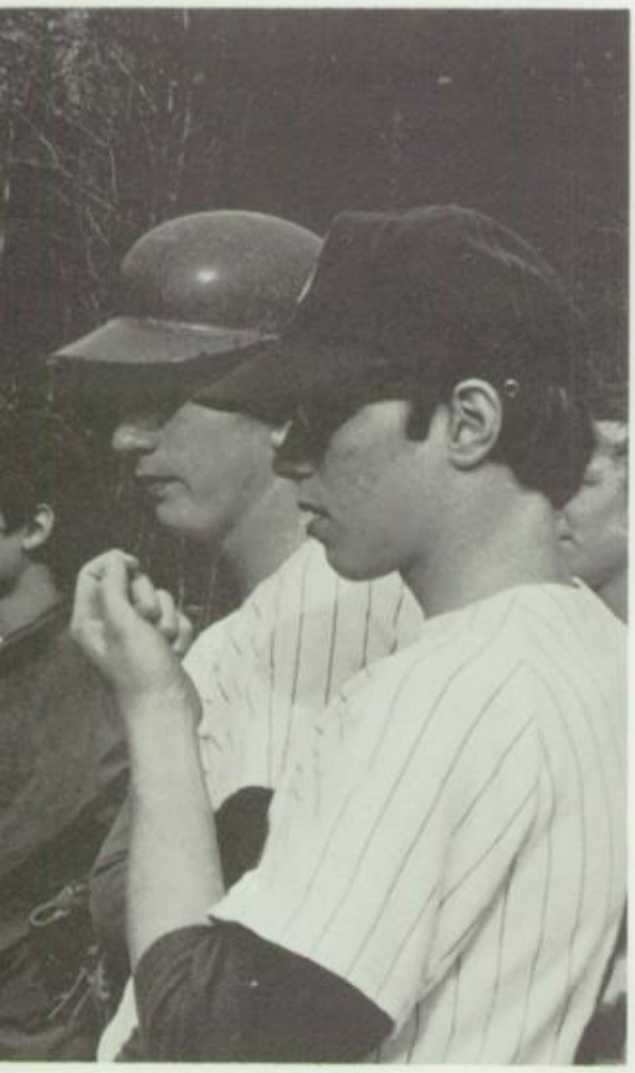
Who else would put Glenvar's welfare first?

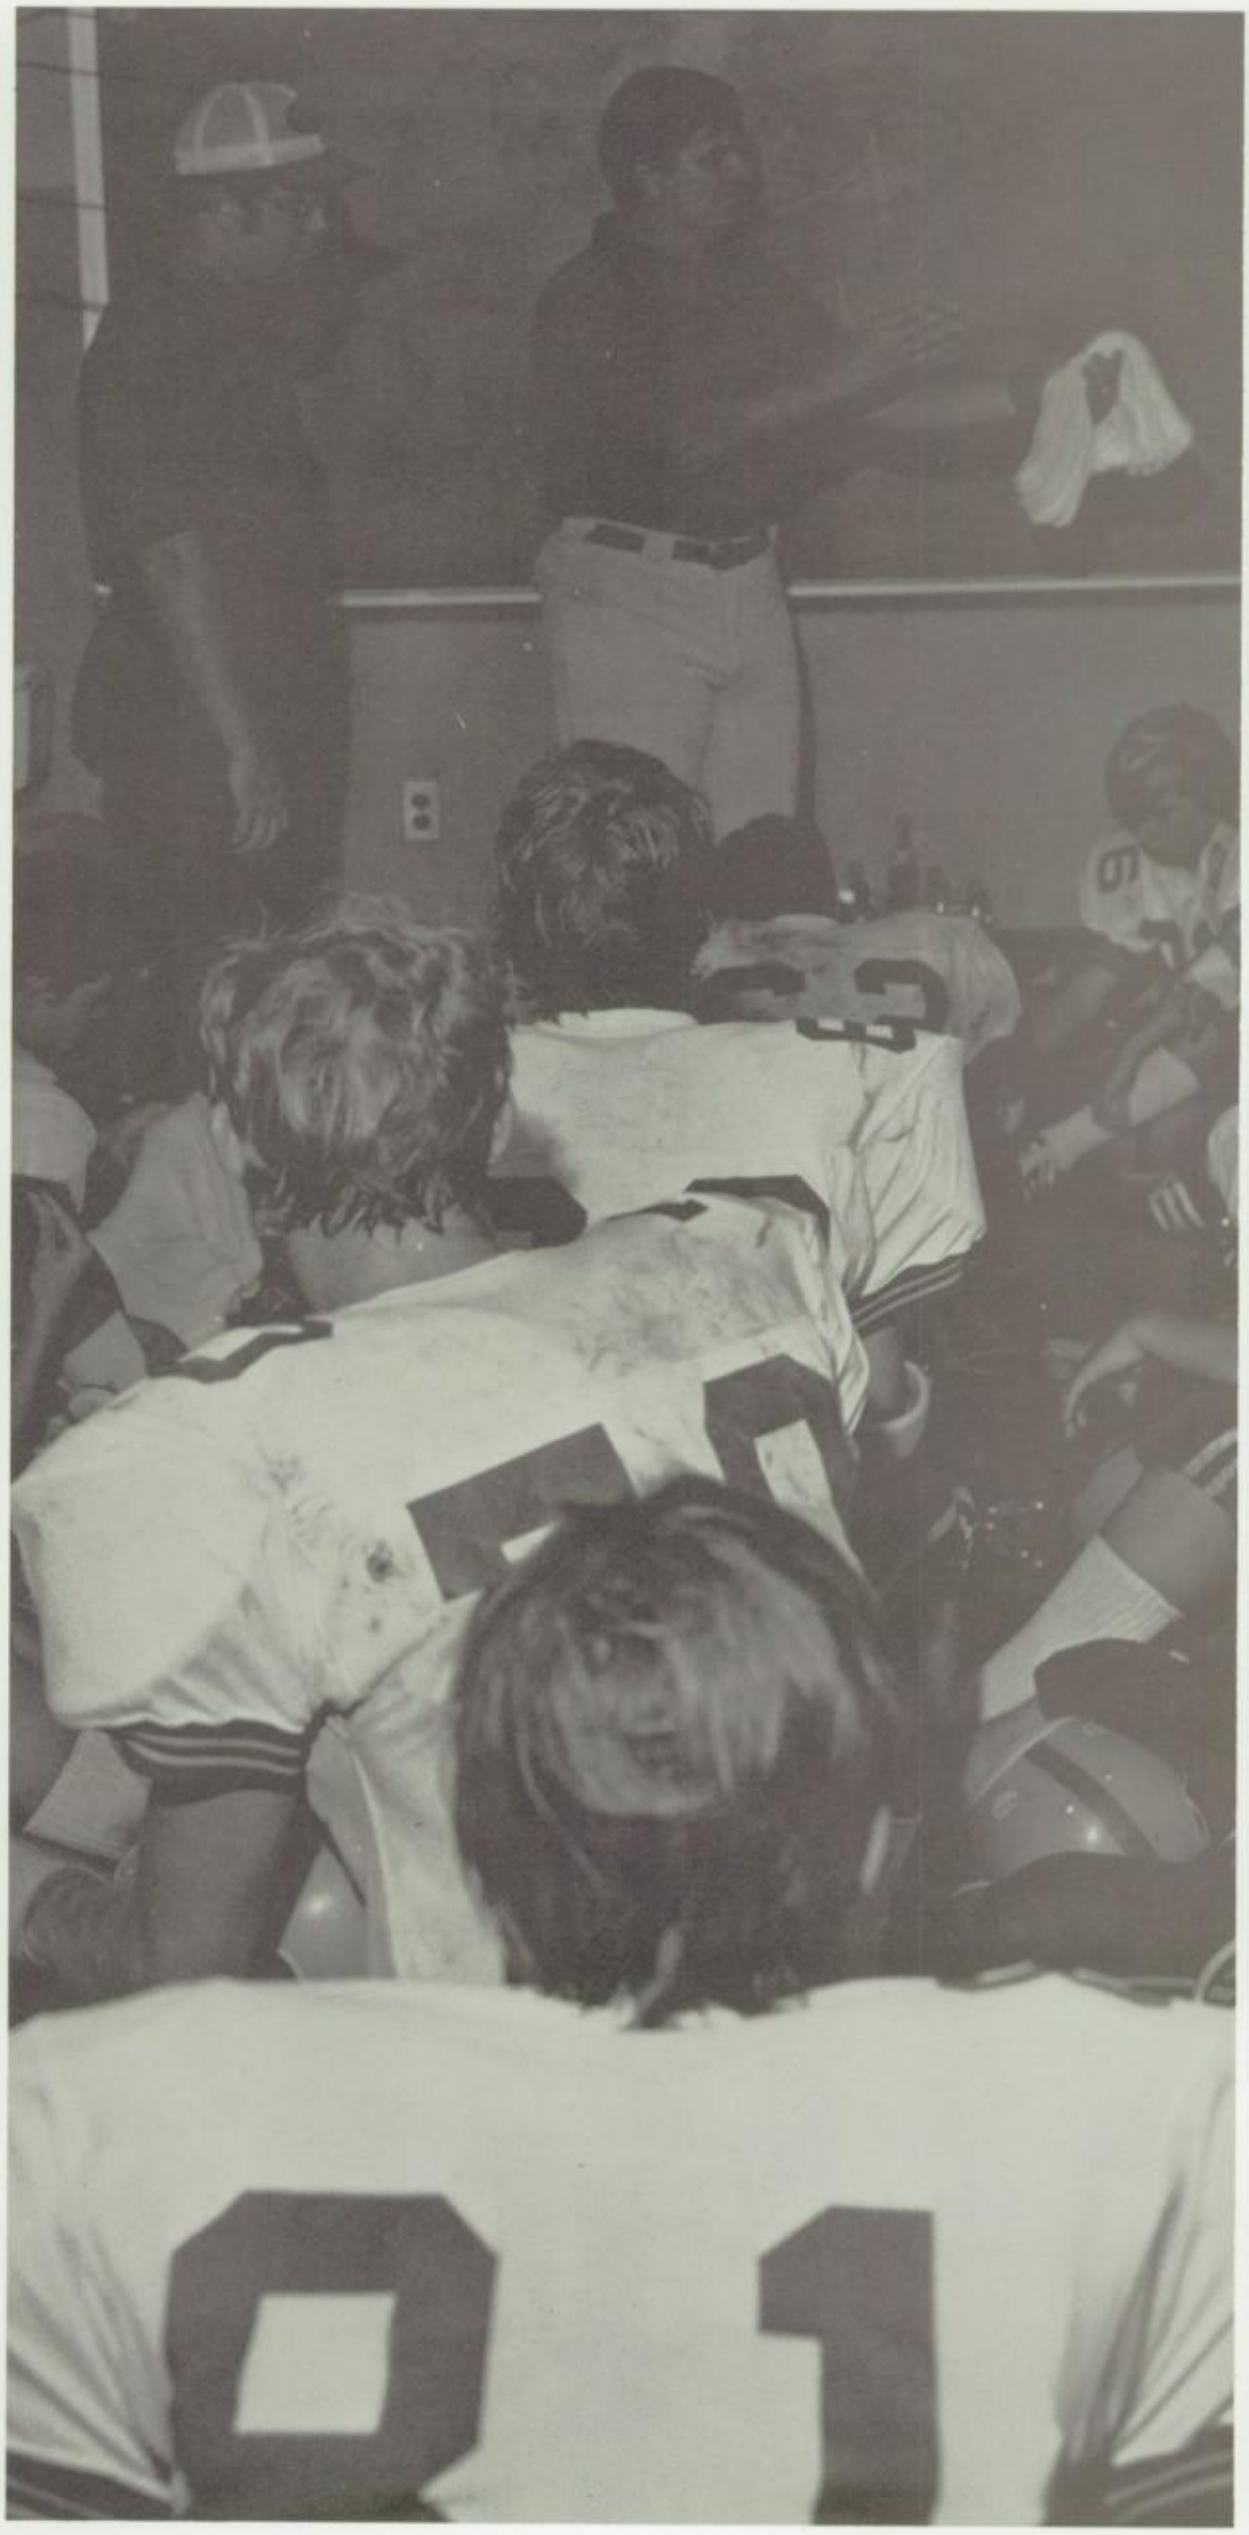
Devotion and empathy are two of the most admirable qualities a human can possess. In our history studies, we have learned to respect our forefathers who were devoted and dedicated to the principles of freedom and democracy. We students at Glenvar have been blessed by a living example of devotion and conviction. It is to this example and man that the annual bestows its dedication.

He has been completely absorbed and involved in the athletic department his four years at Glenvar. As head coach of J.V. football 4 years, freshmen basketball 2 years, and J.V. basketball 2 years, he has made an impact on the lives of many students. He has coached both varsity football and baseball. Endless hours of toil and work have been sweated by this Glenvar enthusiast. His teaching position is that of Driver's Education Instructor and he has prepared many students for a big step in life—obtaining their driver's license.

One single shocking example revealed much about him. His devotion to our fantastic football team was his primary interest the night his wife had a baby. Who else would put Glenvar's welfare above everything else? It is with much elation that the annual dedicates its message to a most deserving friend—Mr. Jacob Hyer.

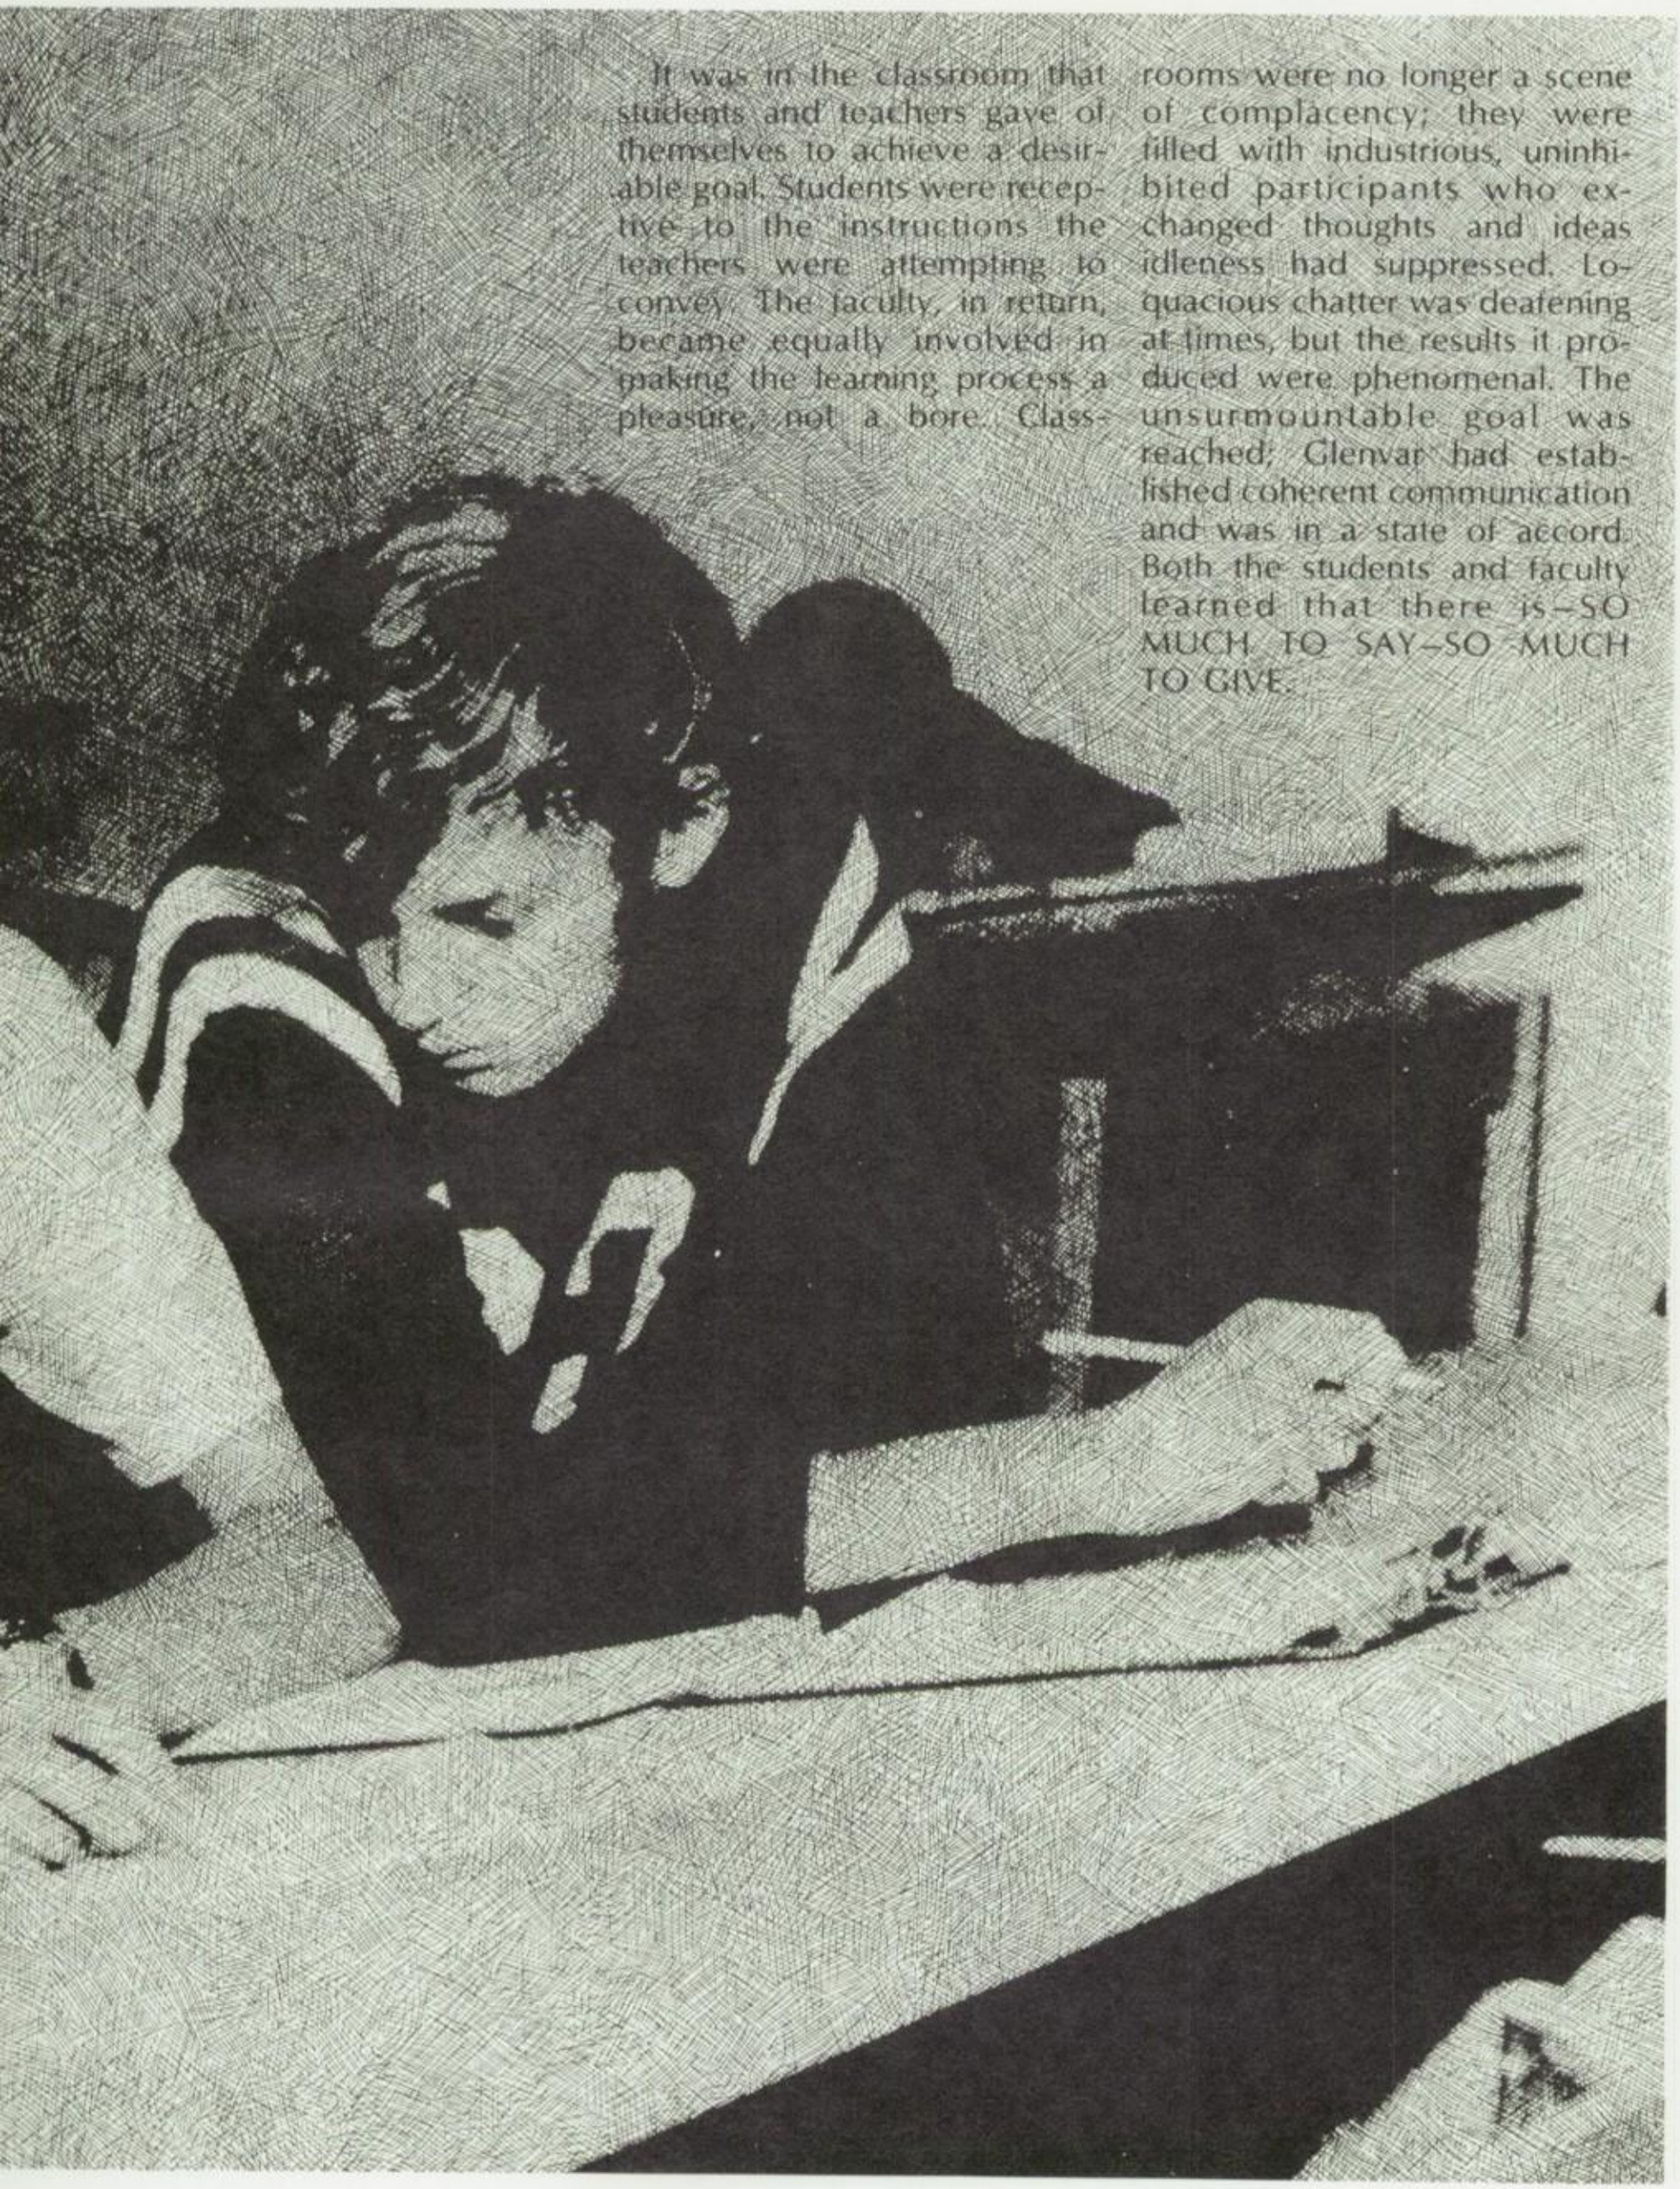
Mr. Hyer displays friendship to his pal, Mr. Wolfe. The importance of team work is often stressed by Mr. Hyer. Talking and joking with students is a favorite pastime of Mr. Hyer's. Mr. Hyer serves as an inspiration to the football team.

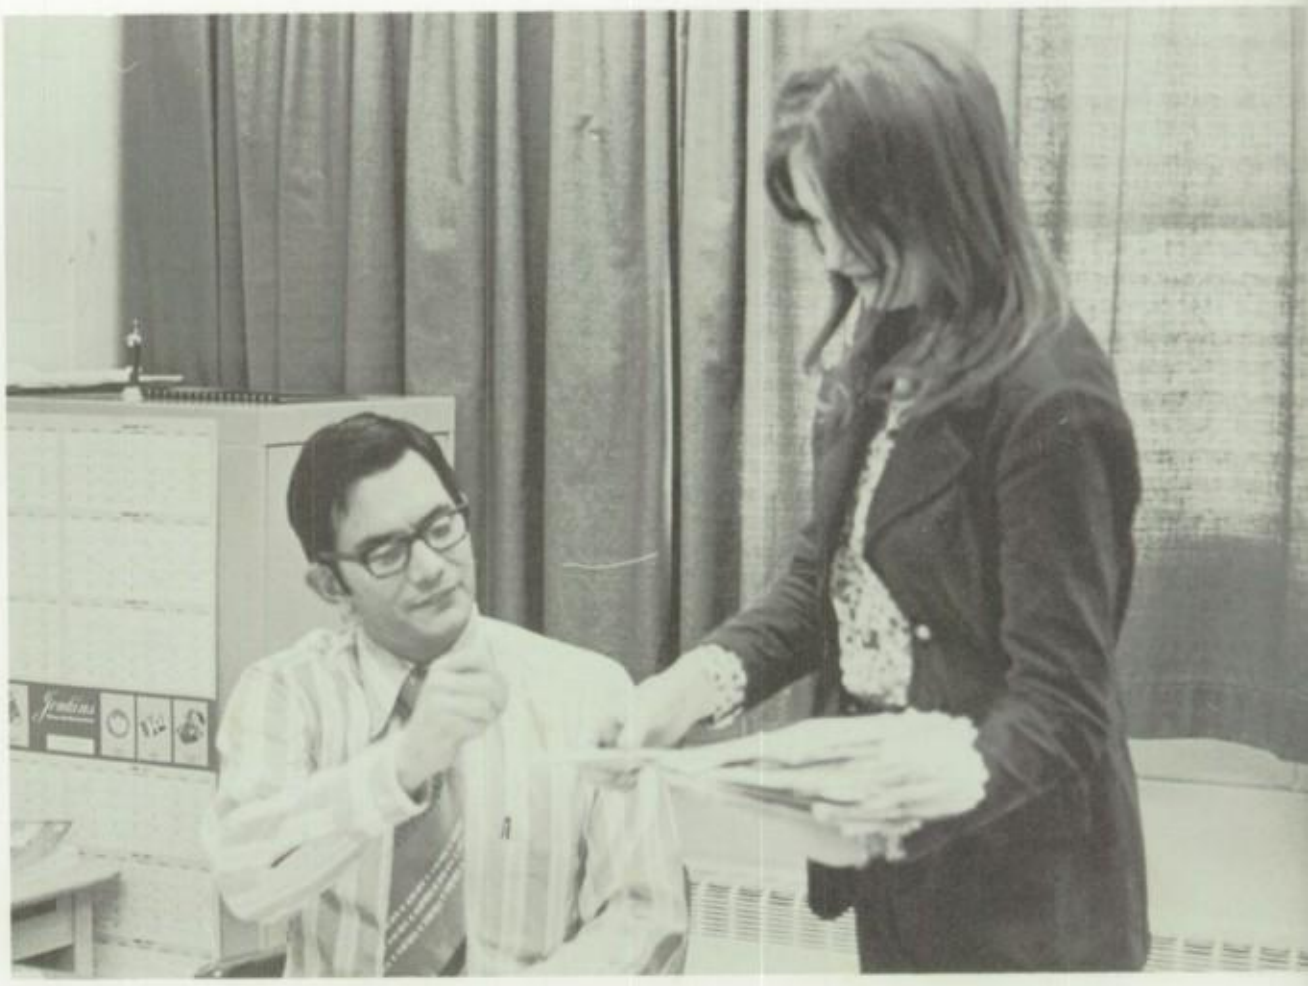




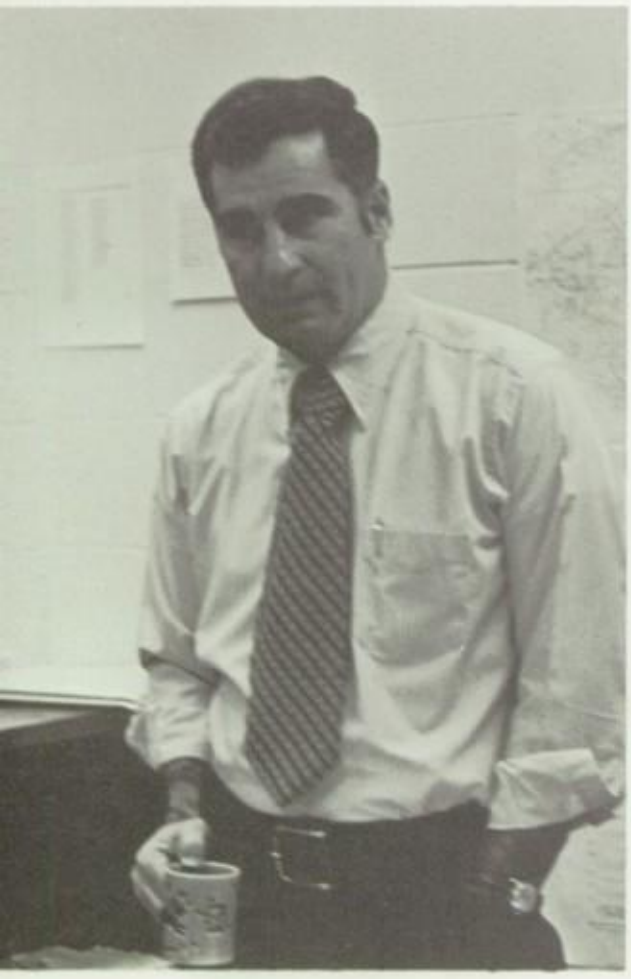
ACADEMICS

It was in the classroom that students and teachers gave of themselves to achieve a desirable goal. Students were receptive to the instructions the teachers were attempting to convey. The faculty, in return, became equally involved in making the learning process a pleasure, not a bore. Classrooms were no longer a scene of complacency; they were filled with industrious, uninhibited participants who exchanged thoughts and ideas idleness had suppressed. Loquacious chatter was deafening at times, but the results it produced were phenomenal. The unsurmountable goal was reached; Glenvar had established coherent communication and was in a state of accord. Both the students and faculty learned that there is—SO MUCH TO SAY—SO MUCH TO GIVE.





ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL



In the past, the administration has been badly abused and misunderstood at G.H.S. We have underestimated the intricate planning, coordinating, and scheduling necessary to run a school smoothly. Mr. C. Vernon Crush, our principal, has a diverse job as head of the faculty and students. Planning all school activities, assemblies, and the athletic format was the job of our assistant principal, Mr. Killinger. Our other assistant principal, Mr. Ford, was responsible for student attendance and behavior. Without the fine work and enthusiasm of our administration, Glenvar's standards would not be as desirable as they are.

Our Administration has the Davidson's Look!

Mr. Crush searches for the answer to one of the various questions posed by our faculty. Mr. Killinger is caught skipping school; wonder how many deep-knee bends Mr. Ford will require him to do as punishment?

Members of our administration are Mr. Jerry Ford, assistant principal, (B.S., M.A. East Tennessee State University), Mr. C. Verner Crush, principal, (B.S. Roanoke College, M.Ed. V.P.I.), and Mr. Bates Killinger, assistant principal, (B.S. Hampden-Sydney, M.Ed. University of Virginia).

The Guidance Department assisted students with personal problems as well as their educational and vocational interests. Keeping all information confidential, the counselors were able to help many Glenvar students. Also this year, the Guidance Department initiated new subjects for students in the eighth, ninth, and tenth grades. These subjects were humanities, dramatics, and music appreciation which proved very worthwhile.

Once again, the department considered setting up the Guidance Committee to maintain a workable relationship between the students and the counselors. This committee would also deal with students' suggestions for making the department even better.

Although the secretaries of Glenvar have many separate duties, they continually helped each other out. They worked as a group, and helped maintain order in the office. Mrs. Fielder was very busy during the school year because she must greet the public and do correspondence work, also. Mrs. Hicks dealt mostly with bookkeeping and making sure all files were in order. Mrs. Woolwine worked with school records and helped with guidance and attendance. With the various duties the secretaries had, they still took time to help students and faculty members at Glenvar.

Working As A Group Helps To Maintain Order

"Oh darn, that's the second fingernail I've broken today!" Mrs. Fielder and Mrs. Hicks pause and smile for the cameraman. The secretaries in our office find their work hectic at times. With all of her work, Mrs. Hicks still finds time to laugh at some of the silly mistakes made by office workers. "Are you here to borrow the scissors again?" Mr. Killinger double checks some of Annette Harrison's office work.

Library Overflows With Interested Students

This past year, the library was filled with interested students who wanted to further themselves. Since Room 208 served as a study period and the cafeteria served as an open study hall, the library served as a place to find research and read books; it was generally a quiet, restful place. Library passes were not issued, so students could go to the library as often as they desired.

When a student was burdened with questions, he could always depend on the help of Mrs. Grizzard, Mrs. Chubb, Mrs. Jarvis, or any of the library assistants to help out. The Seniors especially made use of the instructional materials center when it was time for their English paper or some Home Ec. research. We owe the library and its staff a very big thanks for all their work.

English Relevant to Students' Futures

As in previous years, the main goal of the English Department was to emphasize students' relevance to life rather than the classroom. Each student was encouraged to develop his individualism and break from a stereotyped group.

The division of academic and general English was continued; each junior and senior made this choice according to his later plans in life. In addition, speech and drama classes were offered to those interested.

Mrs. Athey was in charge of forensics, while Mrs. Nichols was head of debate. They wished to strengthen the school in these areas. English and its relevance to the students' lives helped pave the road to the future.

Cathy Sisson and Keith Hartless discuss their English assignment on The Crucible. Mrs. Nichols and her student teacher, Mrs. Adkins, examine desirable teachings techniques. Standing—Mrs. Susan Reeves (Madison College, B.S. in Psychology, Sponsor Varsity Cheerleader), Mrs. Diana Athey (Kent State University, B.S. in Education, Dramatics and Forensics Sponsor), Miss Melba Calaway (Roanoke College, AB degree), Mrs. Mary Hardebeck (Marshall University, B.A. degree, Eighth Grade Sponsor), Miss Darla Davis (Radford College, B.S., M.S. in English and Mathematics; Jr. Red Cross Affiliate—Sponsor) Seated—Miss Anne Clayton (Radford College, B.S. and M.A., Sponsor of the Thistle), Mrs. Dee Nichols (Asbury College, B.A. University of Virginia M.Ed, Sponsor National Honor Society and Debate Coach), Miss Barbara Tabor (Madison College B.S., Sponsor of Bagpipe). Miss Clayton orders photographers out of classroom.

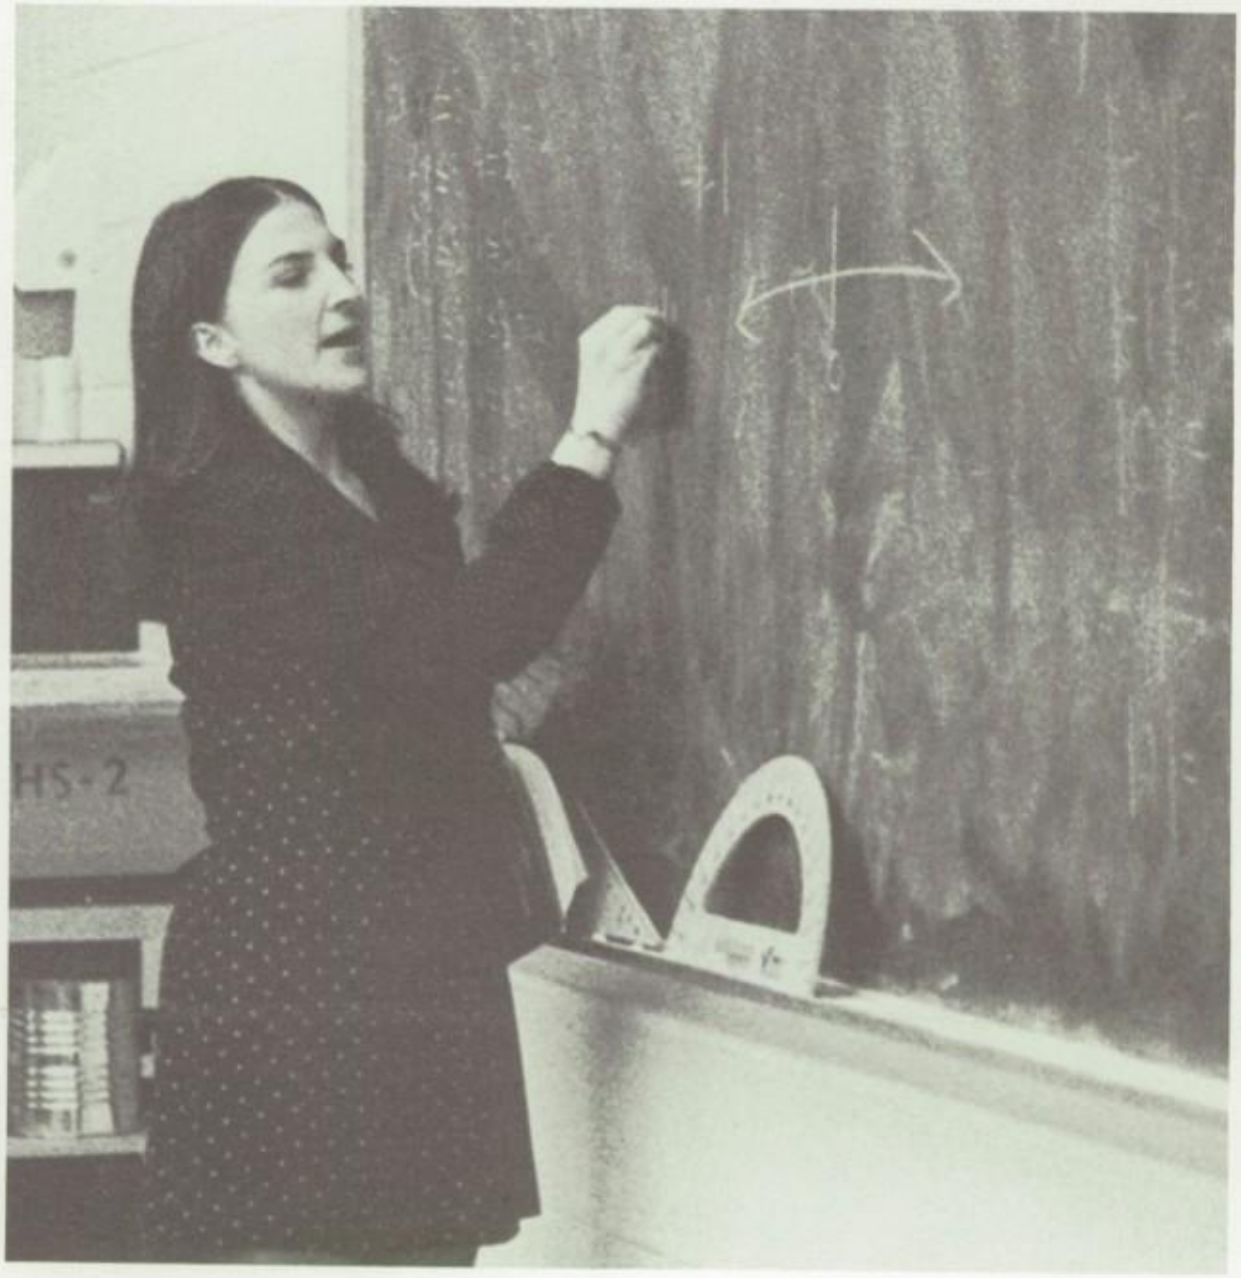
Forensics and Debate Stressed



A Skill Must Be Acquired With the Techniques of Math

The awareness and importance of math was stressed greatly this year. New students found it very difficult to learn the techniques of a proof and how to solve a problem. New equipment and improved ideas were brought in classrooms to excite students' interest and improve their performance.

The Math department had hoped to start a new Math club, but no future plans were ever made. For another consecutive year, Miss Altizer was chosen Head of the Math Department.

Standing: Mr. David Blevins (B.S. Ferrum Jr. College, V.P.I.; Interact Sponsor, Assistant Freshman Football Coach); Miss Bonita Mae Kelley (B.S., A.S. Va. Western Community College; Roanoke College, Chess Club Sponsor); Miss Linda Lee Ankron (B.S. Radford College SCA Sponsor); Miss Dreama C. Dudley (B.S., Radford College, M.A. V.P.I. & S.U. Ext., U.Va. Ext, Freshman Sponsor). Seated; Mrs. Sandra Busick Akers (B.S. Radford College, Pep Club); Mrs. Martha Dantzler (B.A. Converse College, M. Ed. University of Va., C.C. Sponsor); and Miss Carol J. Altizer (B.S. Radford College, Math Department Chairman, FTA Sponsor). Mrs. Akers, as one of her trying moments, is questioned by a student's remarks. Math students find difficult problems while comparing their homework. Students find it easier to locate their mistakes by doing their problems on the board. Miss Altizer, head of the Math Department, carefully looks over her lesson before another class period begins.

During another period of math, Miss Davis stresses the importance of finding a solution set through the section. Mrs. Akers takes time to try and help Sue Reich in finding the reasons of a proof. Math students find you must be attentive in class to find the solutions to homework problems. Debbie Pickle concentrates on the techniques of solving a problem. Mr. Blevins concentrates on a complicated Algebra problem. Miss Ankron finds humor in her Math class.

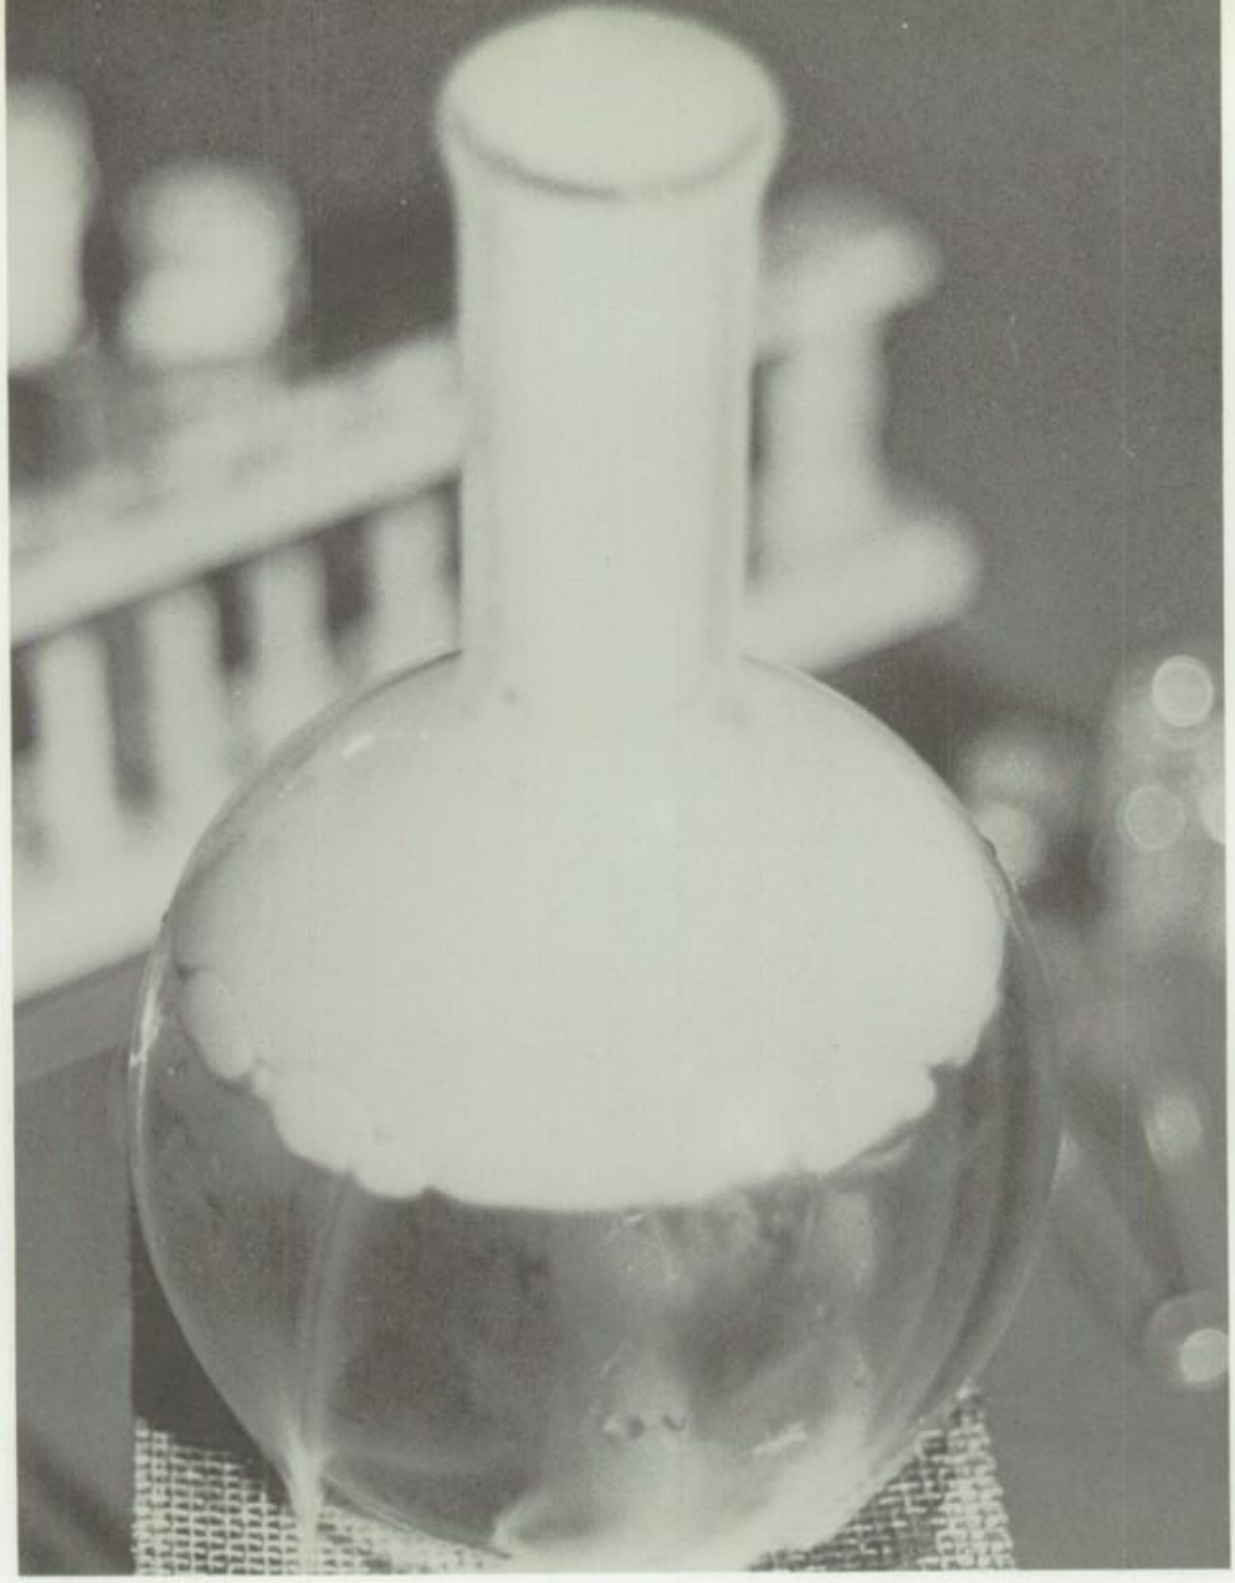
Math Continues to be Difficult



Co-Heads Lead Science Department

After two years of installing new and challenging programs, the Science Department observed many results. Mr. Akers and Mr. Jones filled a big spot vacated by last year's Department Chairman. They served as co-heads, with Mr. Akers in charge of the Chemistry and I.P.S. faction, and Mr. Jones in charge of the Biology faction. The biology classes adopted a new book that combined the text with the Lab Book. The courses offered this year equipped students for life in today's technological society, and gave them an appreciation for the earth's limited resources and fragile beauty.

It must be one of Mr. Akers' friends from outer space. Steve Pillis models his safety glasses for everyone to see. Mr. Jones, our co-head of the Science Department, enjoys his work very much. Miss Ankron teaches both Science and Math in her daily schedule. Mr. Akers again explains the molecular density of a .40 M solution of $AgNO_3$ to a student. Debbie Moheler washes her lab equipment after use.

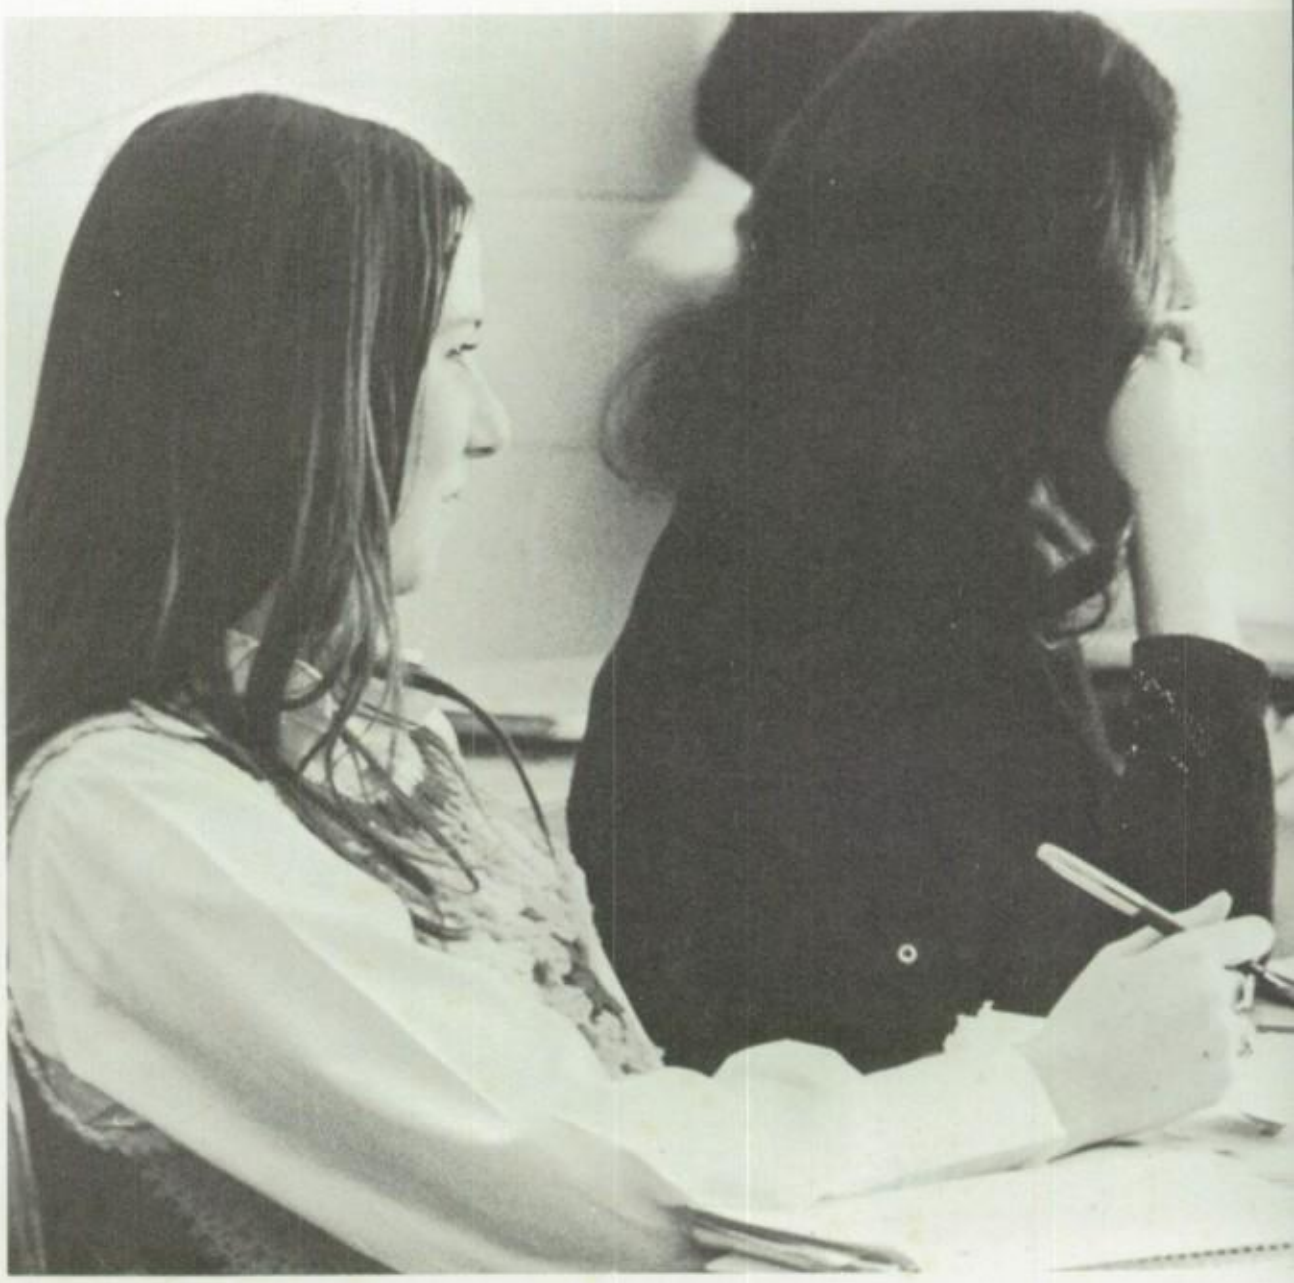
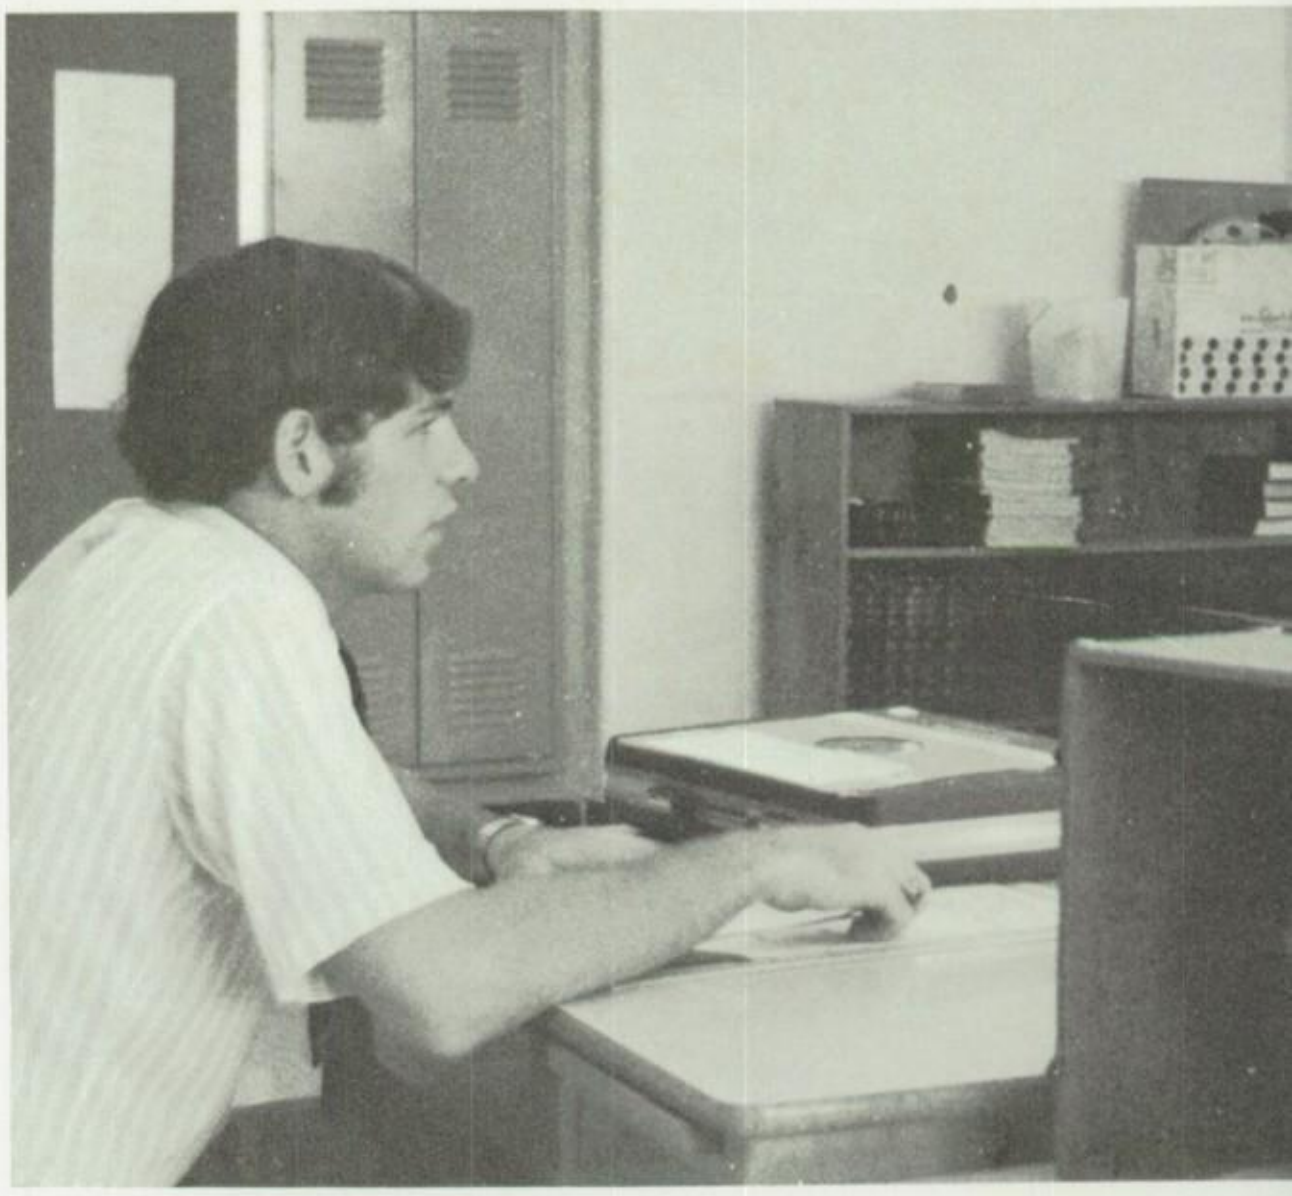
Radford College, Sophomore Class), Mrs. Pam Myers (B.S. Appalachian State, Grappelettes and Pep Club).





Social Studies Gives Students A Better Understanding of the World

In order for the students to obtain a better understanding of the world they live in, the Social studies Department stressed the importance of learning from societies' past accomplishments and mistakes. Through new courses such as Economics, Comparative Government, and Minority Groups, the students were able to receive a better understanding of the changing world.

Current Events, Newsweek, and Scholastic magazines kept the students up to date and aware of today's problems. Audio visual aids, field trips and community speakers added variety to the routine of the classroom.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Hatcher and a very capable department, the students of social studies had a rewarding year.

Miss Robison plans the week's assignment. Steve Neikirk tries to hide his laugh from Mrs. Newell. Melody Lockard and Karleen Tinchium listen diligently in Minority Studies. Mr. Trumbower listens to his class' questions. Chairman). Mrs. Hatcher listens attentively to her students.

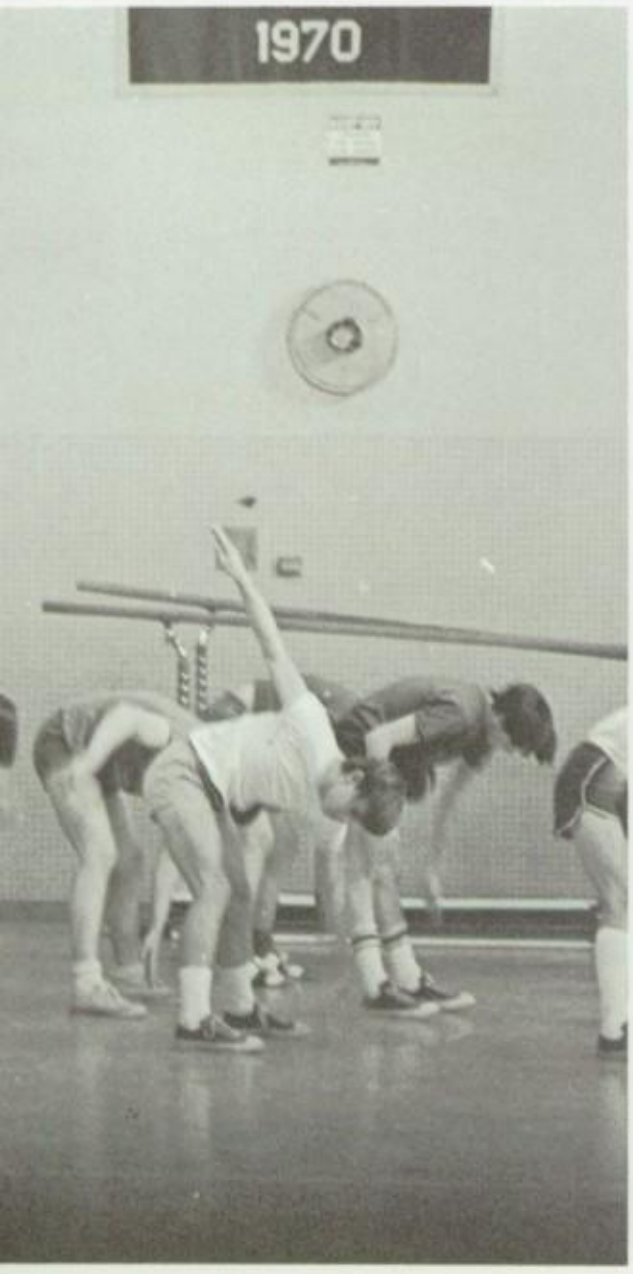
Physical Education still continued to be a most enjoyable class for the eighth, ninth, and tenth graders. It served as a break in the monotony of sitting in class and continued inactivity. One could exchange bits of gossip and unrelated thoughts to others without fear of being yelled at or getting a zero for the day. The chatter in the locker rooms was unimaginable at times, but it was an excellent opportunity to relax and enjoy oneself.

Physical education toned the muscles and body so as to yield an alert, aware person. Students learned that when the body is alert, so is the mind. Many sports and activities including volleyball, archery, basketball, football, modern dance, and fencing were enjoyed by many. At the end of the year, many students considered Physical Education to be their most pleasant class.



Physical Education Strengthens and Relaxes Bodies

Mr. Joseph A. Davis (V.C.U. B.S., M.S. Radford, Varsity Basketball Coach), Mr. Thomas Kucer (W. Va. B.S. Phys. Ed., Football, Tennis, Monogram), Mr. Richard D. Pitts, (East Tenn. State Univ., B.S. Indoor, Outdoor, Track, and Cross Country). Serving the volleyball is essential to produce an effective game. Barry Martin practices his release on the ball. Warm-up exercises are always the worst part. There's always some goof-offs in a crowd. Mr. Davis enjoys tennis almost as much as basketball.

Fencing is a New Attraction For Girls' P.E. Classes

Miss Brock is caught in the act of taking roll. Mrs. Elizabeth Brock (Longwood College B.S., G.A.A. sponsor Girls' Volleyball), Mrs. Marlene Hicks (Radford B.S., G.A.A.), Miss Janice Hoffman (Fairmont State B.A., J.V. Students Look For A Better Future In Business

Business education consists of courses and activities in the area of business designed to meet the common needs of all students and the vocational need of students who desire to prepare for employment in business.

Basic business courses such as General Business, Record-keeping, and Typing I are available to all students, and is recommended to all students also. Vocational business education is available to all students who need and can profit by it.

In the block-time programs, there are many different subjects taught throughout the year, but typing is correlated with all of them. The students in Clerk Typing II this year will have on-the-job training by using their skills in administrative offices at Glenvar.

Suzanne Bohon looks puzzled; has she lost her "thing?" Mr. Gray instructs his D.E. II students on their working schedules. Glenn Daugherty asks for assistance from Mrs. Dalton on his classroom assignment. Mrs. Jennings always wanted to be a cheerleader. The Business Department consists of: Mr. Roger Martin (B.S. Milligan College, Football and Track Coach, F.B.L.A.), Mrs. Diana Dalton (B.S. Radford College, F.B.L.A.), Mrs. Martha Jennings (B.S. Humanities, New Concept in Curriculum

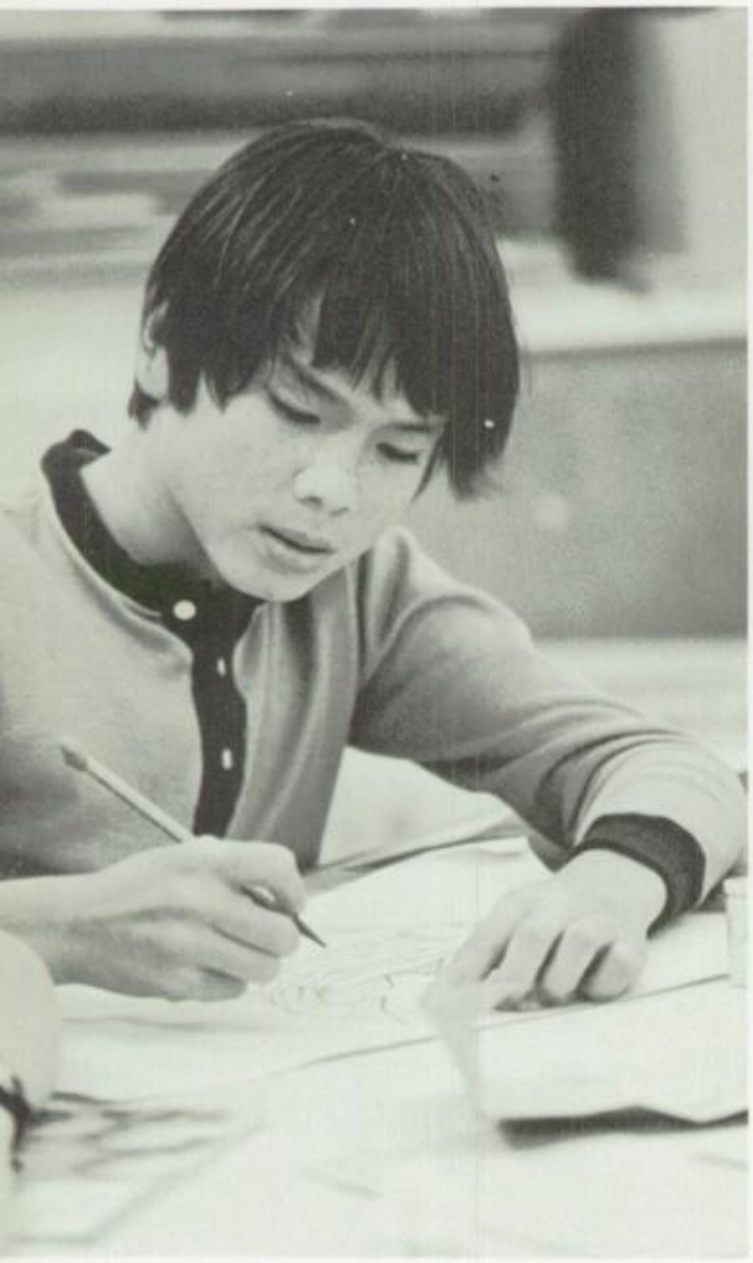
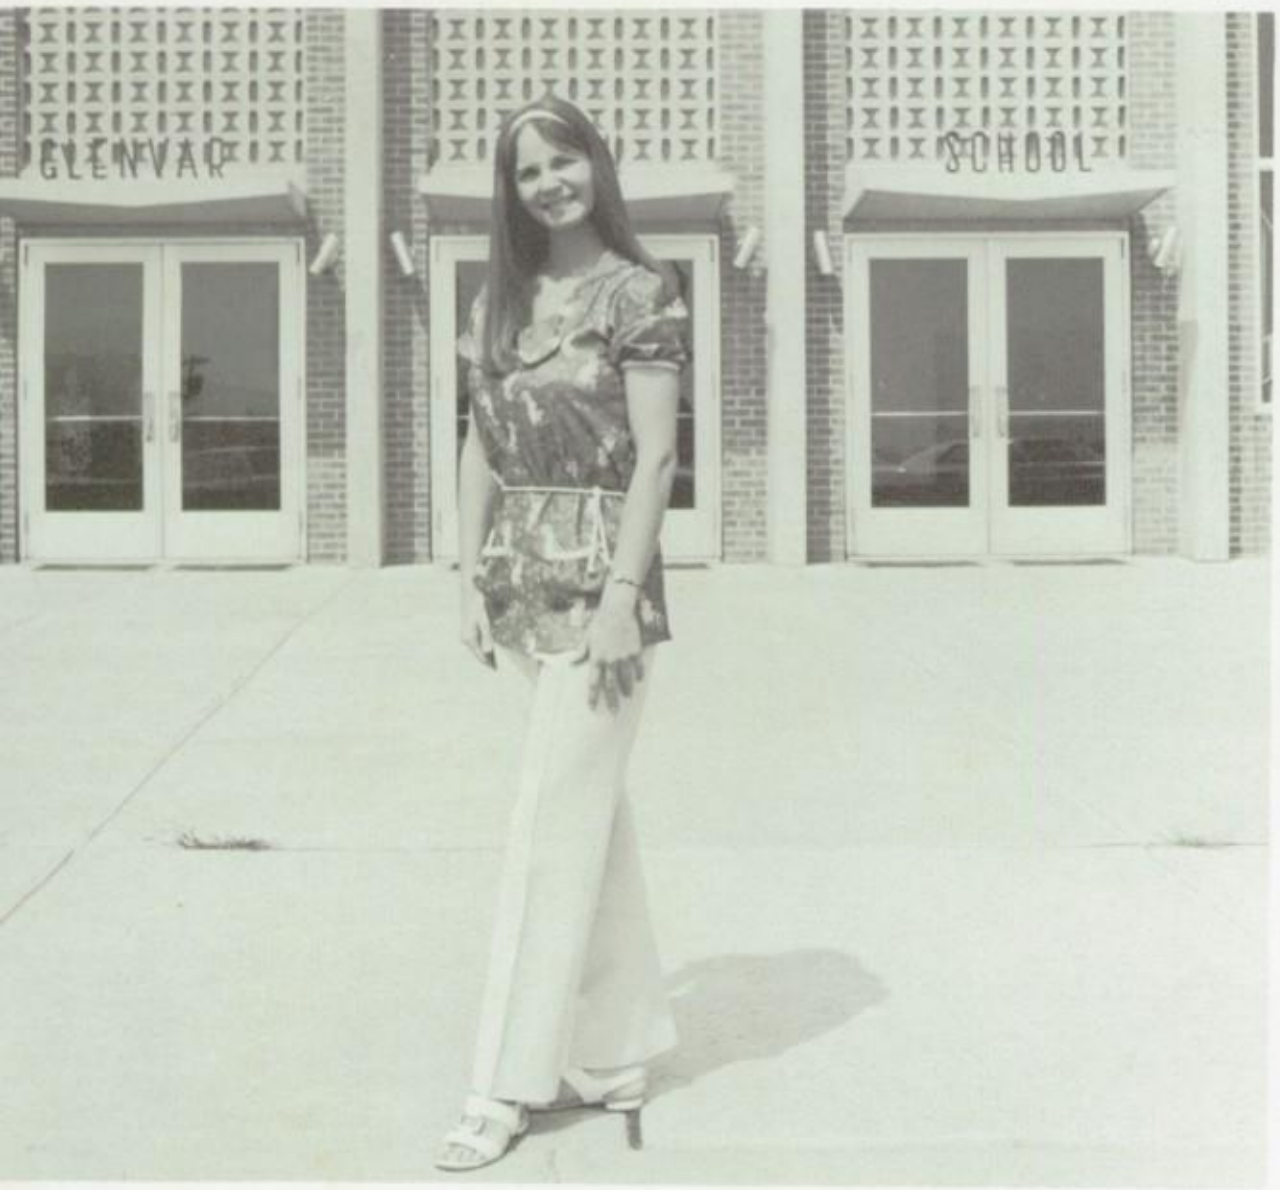
For the first time at Glenvar, the Foreign Language Department offered a new humanities course to all eighth grade students. Through the new section of the department, the students were able to understand the French and Spanish languages better. Also, through the course, the students realized how man could broaden his horizons through art, music, and French and Spanish culture. The instruction given by Mrs. Willis and Mrs. Carico was aided by the use of the language lab. Many new maps, slides, film strips, reference books, and records added to the understanding of the lives of people in foreign countries.

Mrs. Carico laughs at Mike Fisher's antics. Arturo Leah; who's that? Mrs. Kathryn R. Willis (Mary Washington College, B.A., Junior Class Sponsor, Foreign Language League), Elizabeth J. Carico (Radford College, B.S. Spanish, Foreign Language League, Junior Class). Kathy Scales daydreams about Spain. Mrs. Willis explains the conjugation of verbs to her second year french class. Mrs. Carico listens carefully for the mistakes made by her fourth period class.





Pencil and Pen, Tongue of the Mind

This year at G.H.S. a pen, pencil, and paint brush were the tongue of the mind to many students. Pictures served as poems without words and taught the students a lesson in the complexity of abstraction. Students top priority was to capture their personal emotions in the picture and secondly, they were to worry about exactness.

Art was truly an inspirational experience to many who discovered the beauty and importance in self-expression. Miss Watts, a very talented and experienced instructor, had much to teach her students in the art field. The art curriculum again consisted of tissue paper, oils, inks, and the scratchboard.

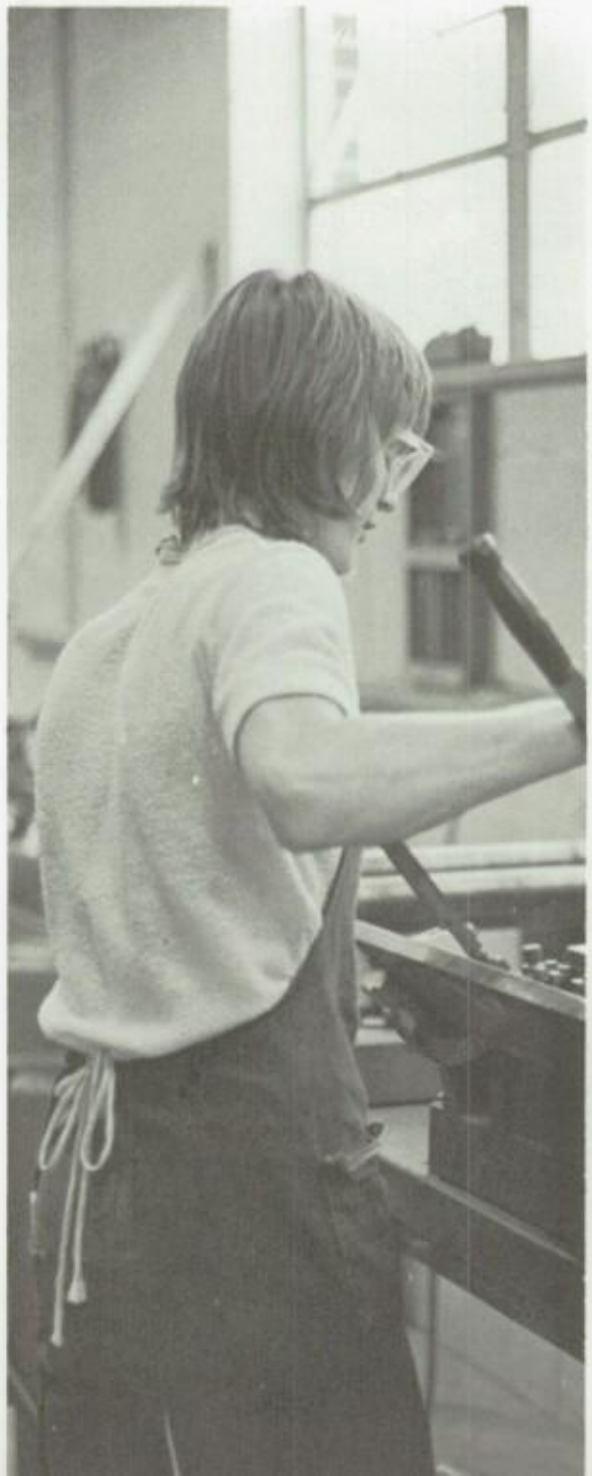
Select Few Will Be In Stage Band

The Glenvar Highlander band participated in all football games this year, including marching in Clifton Forge's Homecoming Parade and marching in the Salem Christmas Parade. They won their first major championship in May of last year when they marched through pouring rain at Harrisonburg with 30 other bands and were selected the first place band in the 1972 Virginia Poultry Festival Parade. For this they received approximately 35 invitations to various events for this year. but no decision has been made on which will be accepted.

New this year was a stage band which consisted of a select group of 18 musicians from the band which played standard dance, jazz and rock music. The band also hosted this year's All Roanoke County Band in January 1973 and had approximately 22 members in the band. Some members were selected for the All Regional Band which consisted of the best 200 players from District 6 which includes about 70 schools. The Highlander Band, the Marching Green and Gold, played an important part in Glenvar's spirit.

Mr. Wilbur E. Grant (Shenandoah Conservatory of Music, Boston Conservatory of Music, BME degree, Band Director), Miss Brenda A. Booe (Mars Hill, Bachelor of Music Education, Choir Director). The band tunes up for a big Friday night. Leslie Wright, the only girl drummer, expresses her need for equality. Miss Booe reprimands the choir. Drum Major Keith Hartless directs the band.

Mr. Carpenter (B. Ed. Eastern Illinois University–Radford College B.S. Head Industrial Arts Dept.) Dean Martin is at home in the Industrial Arts room. Industrial arts is not all machinery, you also have Mechanical Drawings. Billy Rhoads works very hard on the Glenvar Sign. Mr. Wolfe (B.S. East Tennessee State University).



New Techniques Are Initiated In Curriculum

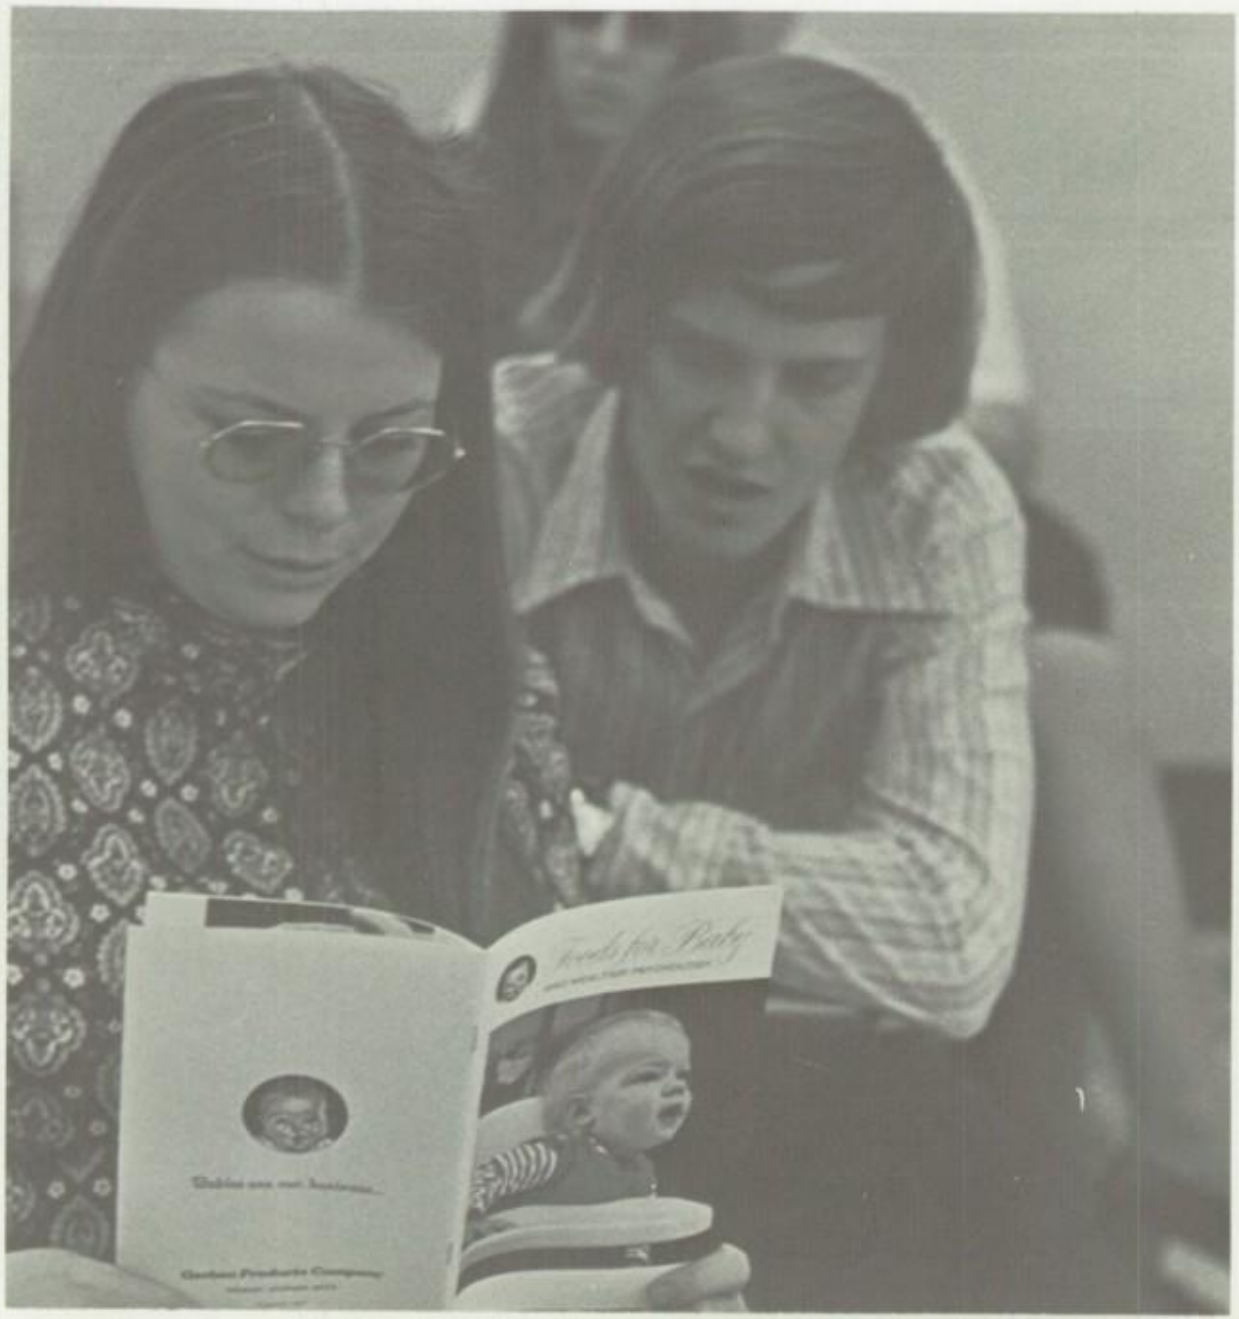
Industrial Arts employed a new technique with the eighth grade classes this year. The first semester consisted of The World of Manufacturing and the second semester involved The World of Construction. Mass production projects and rocket experiments were undertaken by these classes.

Design and drawing was stressed in other industrial arts classes. The first project involved erecting a straw tower which could support a brick twelve inches above the table. This helped the student learn how to use a weak material to hold a heavy one. Advanced woodworking was involved mainly with furniture and small woodworking projects. Girls were accepted into the Industrial Arts classes this year, but all dropped the class except for one. They hope to remedy this situation by next year.

Responsibilities of Family Life Are Stressed

Home Economics is a specialized study centering around the home and the situations incurred in this atmosphere. The goal is to prepare students for the adjustments and duties one must make in a home. Lessons were taught in sewing, cooking, budgeting, and all other aspects of running a household efficiently and effectively.

Senior Home Economics students learned about the nature of children and how unpredictable they may be. Mrs. Fitzpatrick was a new addition to the teaching staff, and she proved to be valuable. Again the Betty Crocker Homemaker Test was given to all students interested. Home Economics survived another year under the very capable directions of Mrs. Cobble.



Red Ellis tries to find out what interests Sherry Hoback so much. James Remines shows Mrs. Fitzpatrick how to put a baby's diaper on. Mrs. Cobble (East Tennessee State University, B.S., F.H.A.) and Mrs. Fitzpatrick (Radford College, B.S., F.H.A.). Watch those fingers! Connie Payne puts the finishing touches on her smock. Boiling eggs was always a difficult task, right?

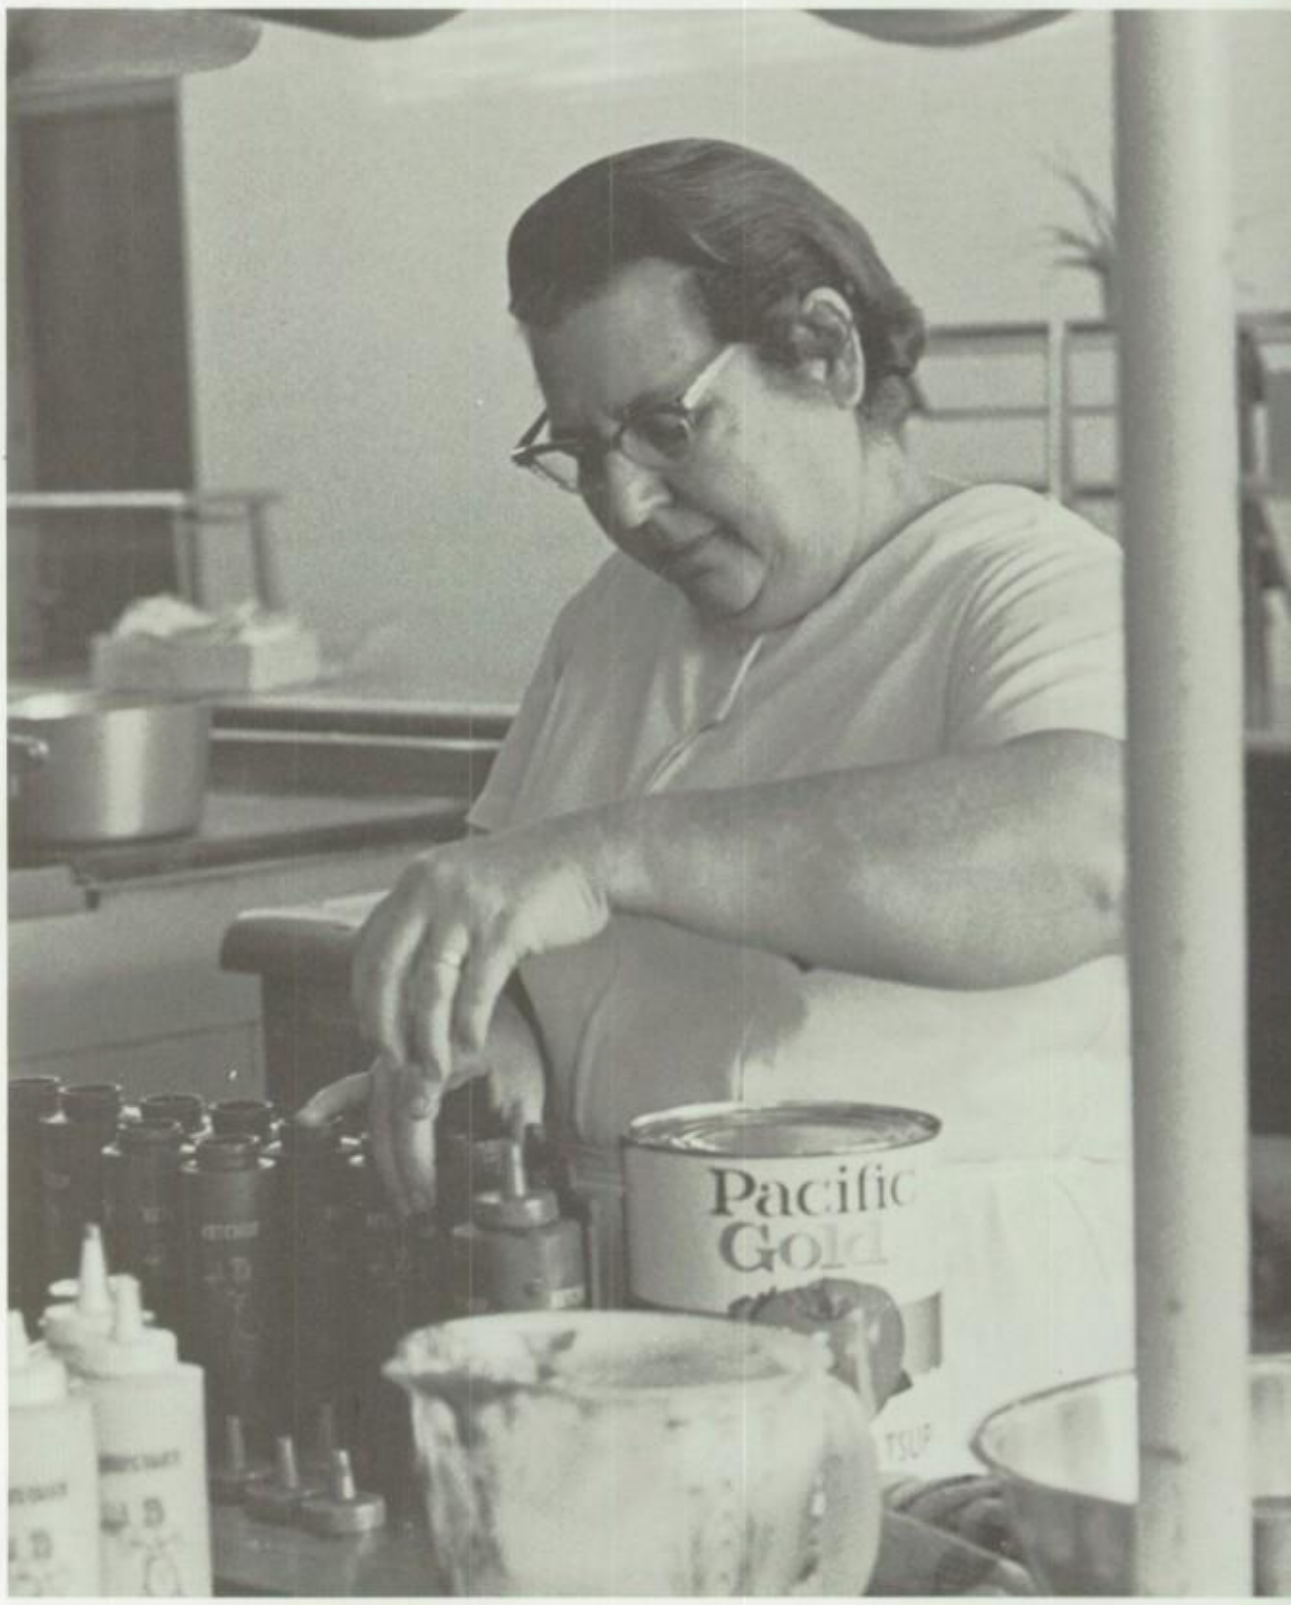
Driver's Education Teaches Responsibility

Students must learn to stop at red light! Everyone gathers together before separating to go to different cars. Mr. Hyer illustrates the proper way to do a Figure-8. Driver's aides are a help to Mrs. Sublett and Mr. Hyer. Mr Hyer gives instruction to the confused drivers. Mr. Hyer brings the cars out in the morning.

Driver's Education taught students the responsibilities of driving. It was a three part program consisting of instruction in the classroom, on the range, and on the road. Mrs. Sublett and Mr. Hyer were the able teachers who insisted that students be serious about Driver's Education because many accidents could be prevented if everyone took driving seriously.

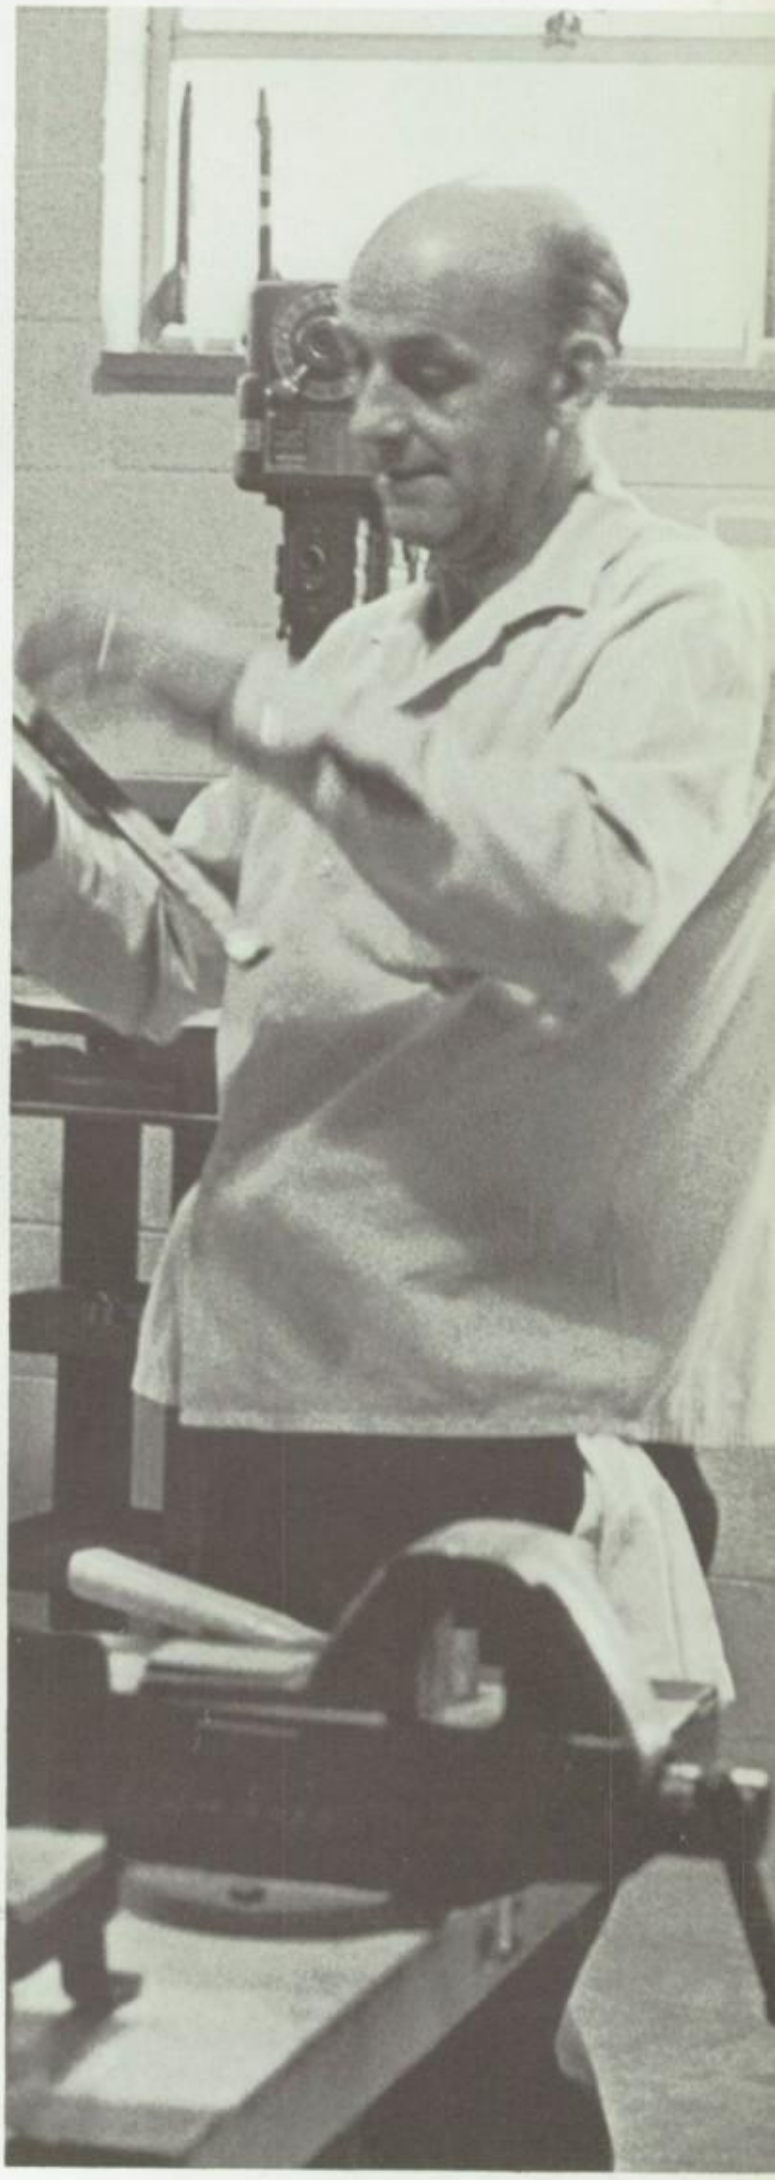
Service Staff Is Extremely Under-rated

The Service Staff consists of the maid, cafeteria workers, and two custodians. The maid dusted the furniture and was responsible for keeping our bathrooms clean. Our cafeteria workers prepared our daily meals which were extremely good. Mr. Barnes was in charge of maintenance which included keeping the school at a even temperature and making sure the students were comfortable. We had an excellent staff that was truly under-rated.



Mrs. Miller does an excellent job as maid. Assistant Custodian is a big help to Mr. Barnes. Keeping the ketsup bottles filled is a constant job.

Preparing a day's meal for around 600 people is a monstrous task. What, a bean pot? Head Custodian, Mr. Barnes, has a very complex job running this school.



HIGHLANDERS

In every institution that succeeds, the basis for success is the individuals that promote and belong to it. Glenvar, an institution for the development of students minds, bodies and personalities, has excelled. The reason for Glenvar's advancement and superiorty is the students who serve as a strong foundation for constructive development. Each student's ideas and behavior is important because he has the responsibility to promote Glenvar's image and reputation. Glenvar is respected as a pleasant and friendly school because most students have realized the significant power they possess in conveying a favorable picture of Glenvar. Although there were a few students who acted disrespectfully, the majority of the students should be congratulated for their efforts in contributing to Glenvar's growth.

Being in the "top notch" position can sometimes be scary; you always get criticism from the lower branches. But with all honesty, not too much criticism can be placed on a group who has put into reality many of their dreams. Having so much to say and so much to give, the Class of 1973 burst forth.

From the very beginning the class showed the spirit and enthusiasm that is necessary for a unified class. As sophomores, the spark plug was awarded to us, and as juniors, through determination and the ability to work together, we produced one of the best proms Glenvar's ever had. But many of our "dreams come true" were accomplished in our Senior year. We had the most successful overall sports year Glenvar has ever had. Our football team brought home the cherished Blue Ridge District Championship Title, and our Basketball Team ranked high in the district.

There were sad thoughts as each one of us watched or played in his last football or basketball game, sat at his last pep rally, took part in his last assembly, and walked the halls of Glenvar for his last time. Memories of yesterday mingled with hopes of tomorrow as we watched our robed classmates walk down the aisle to receive their diplomas.

Our chief goal in life is to find something that will help us to find ourselves. Glenvar High School has been a major factor in our search for identity. Throughout Homecoming week, spirit and enthusiasm mounted. The classes participated by decorating the halls and contributing to the spirit chain. At the end of the week there was a pep rally, which was the best of the year. That night the Highlanders exploded to a 14-7 victory over Alleghany, where the "boomeroski" was the winning play. Halftime activities included entertainment for the court by the Highlander Marching Green and Gold. Jackie Cockerham was crowned queen and James Slate was crowned king. Following the game there was a hop in the gym where the students danced to the music supplied by Sugar Bear.

Prom in Spring is Highlight of the Year

Our Junior Year was the busiest, most important year in our growth at Glenvar. The goal of the year was to produce the best prom ever, but in order to do that more money than it seemed possible was needed. Various money making projects were used such as selling magazines, candy and sponges. Two productions were extremely successful, Miss Valley of the Dolls Pageant and the Junior Class play.

The two productions required the most time. The Valley of the Dolls Pageant had many night practices and long periods of work during school to make props. The pageant followed in the school's tradition of excellent and hilarious entertainment. The crowd's favorite, Miss Fanny Fisher, was crowned Queen by last year's first runner-up, Miss Prissy Parr. The Junior Class play was in conjunction with the Drama Club and Classes. Anyone was allowed to participate, regardless of their class standing. Money from the production was to go to the Junior Class.

No longer did the Juniors feel like underclassmen. Our year's efforts were dedicated to the Seniors, hoping to make their last year their best year. In our efforts, we found the key to cooperation, and a bond was created among all Juniors. The differences that once separated us were no longer existent.

Junior Class President Ruth Hudson, and Vice President Allen Blomberg, find amusement in their many duties. Secretary Susan Richardson and Treasurer Helen Ring get caught sneaking into the elementary school.

The Sophomore Class got off to a good start this past year. With the assistance of their new sponsor, Mrs. Davis, a lot of new activities were planned. Several money making projects were attempted, such as oil lamps, which later proved to be a success.

The Sophomores put it all together and decorated a hall for Homecoming Week. Also, they showed how much school spirit they really had and won the spark plug for the first time.

By the end of the year, the Sophomores managed to contribute to the betterment of our school. They left Glenvar with a smile and looked to seeing it all happen again their Junior year.

Freshmen Win Spirit Chain Again

The Freshman class had a lot to give to Glenvar throughout the year. They showed their spirit during Homecoming week by having the longest spirit chain for the second year in a row. They also decorated a car in the parade, and decorated their hall. The Freshmen started on their money-making projects. Their goal was the best prom ever. They began with a car wash and a bake sale; both were a big success. All of these events were put before the class during the several class meetings that were held throughout the year. The freshmen had a good year and are looking forward to an even better sophomore year.

Pre-vocational Training New Idea

The Roanoke County Educational Center was a preparatory experience in job learning. Juniors and Seniors actually worked out of school while the underclassmen studied in the classroom. In the first year of study, they had pre-vocational training at William Byrd Intermediate. The second and later years were spent at the Roanoke County Educational Center located near the General Electric Company. All the years were worthwhile and essential to the growth of the students, no matter where they were located.

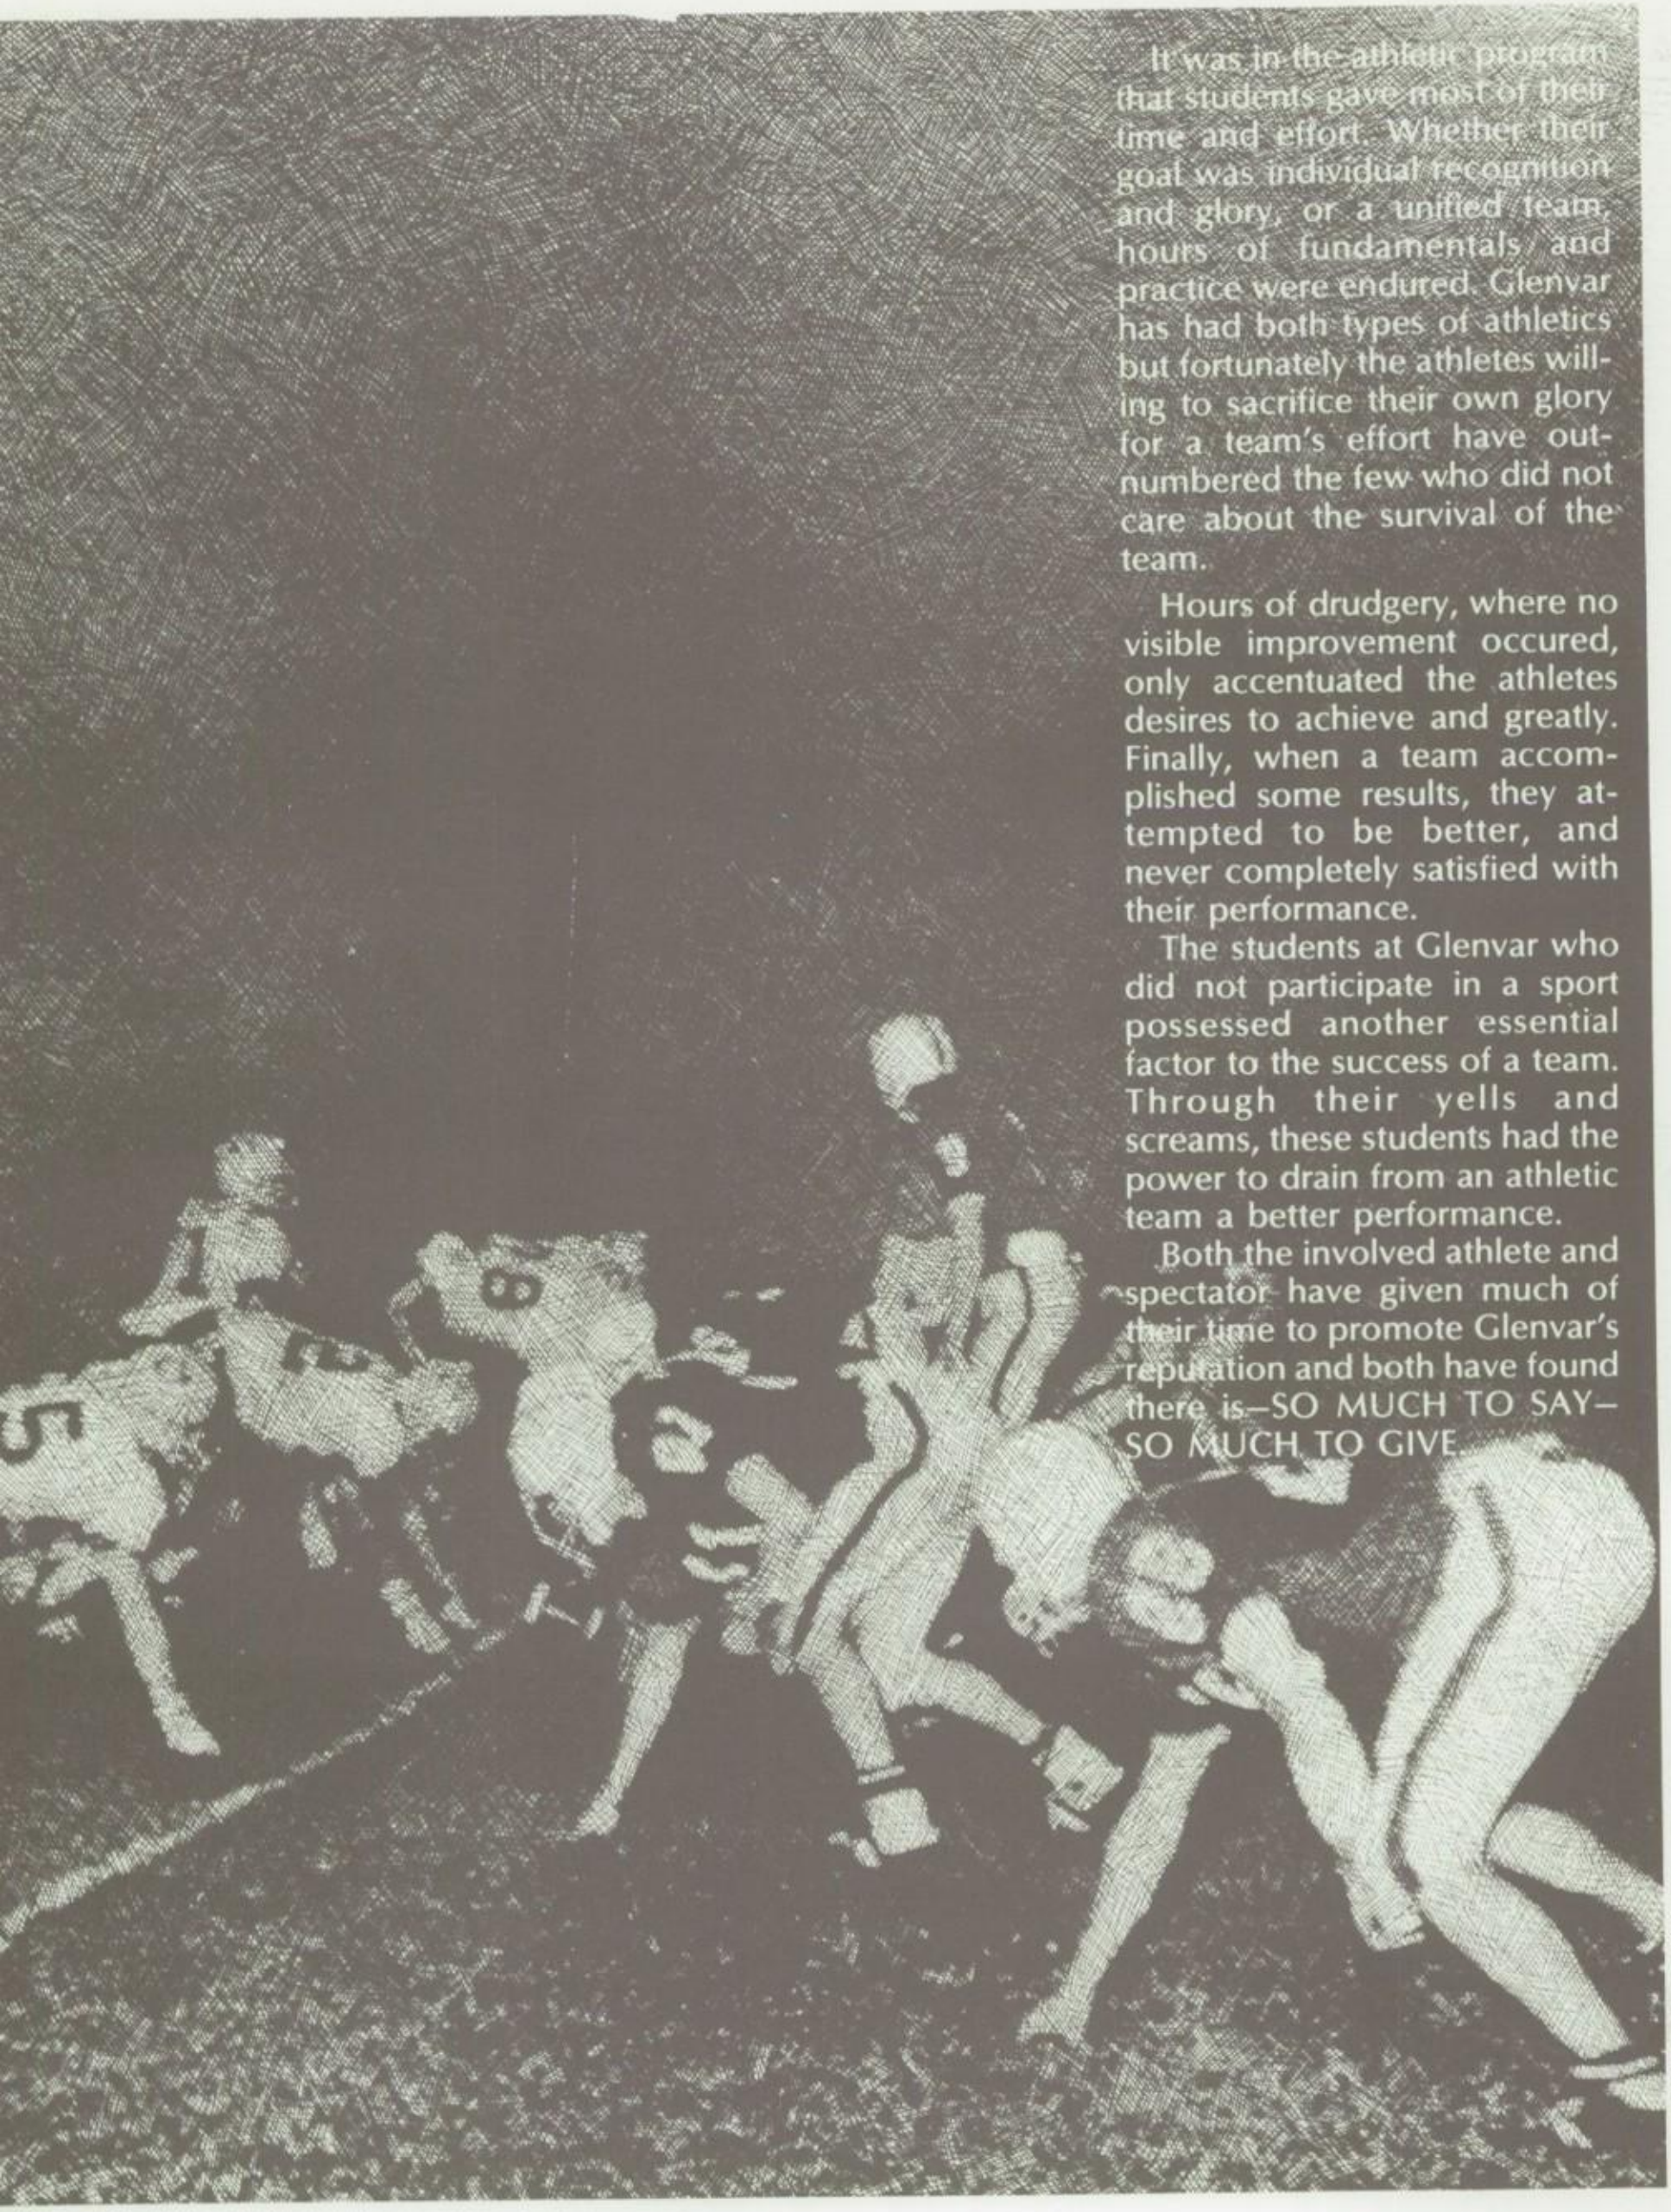
ATHLETICS



It was in the athletic program that students gave most of their time and effort. Whether their goal was individual recognition and glory, or a unified team, hours of fundamentals and practice were endured. Glenvar has had both types of athletics but fortunately the athletes willing to sacrifice their own glory for a team's effort have outnumbered the few who did not care about the survival of the team.

Hours of drudgery, where no visible improvement occured, only accentuated the athletes desires to achieve and greatly. Finally, when a team accomplished some results, they attempted to be better, and never completely satisfied with their performance.

The students at Glenvar who did not participate in a sport possessed another essential factor to the success of a team. Through their yells and screams, these students had the power to drain from an athletic team a better performance.

Both the involved athlete and spectator have given much of their time to promote Glenvar's reputation and both have found there is—SO MUCH TO SAY—SO MUCH TO GIVE.

For the Varsity Cheerleaders, the year began in June. The squad attended National Cheerleading Camp in July where many hours of practice and planning the year's activities were essential in producing a united squad. Finally, the day came when the importance of the practices were realized; they were prepared for the first bonfire, pep rally, and football game.

Under the direction of Mrs. Susan Reeves, the cheerleaders led the fans in cheers for all the varsity football and basketball games. They also participated in other activities at school. Always enthusiastic, the cheerleaders did everything from singing on the intercom to building a "Highlander House" to raise school spirit. As the year ended they could see that all their efforts had achieved their one main goal—a school abundant in contagious, exuberant spirit.

Long and Tiring Year Comes to an End for J.V.'s

The J.V. Cheerleaders started the year off by attending N.C.A. cheerleading camp in the summer. They were taught new cheers and stunts and were evaluated on what they had learned. A lot of improvement was made individually and in the squad as a whole.

They attended all of the football and basketball games and never quit showing support for their team. They also were able to ride the bus with the players to away games and cheer them on to victories.

The Memory of Cheerleading Camp Reigns in the Minds of the Grappelettes

As another year came to an end, the memories of cheering reigned in the grappelettes' minds. The memory of going to National Cheerleading Camp is one that will never be forgotten. They received such awards as honorable mention, outstanding, and excellent ribbons.

When the year opened, they practiced every week along with making signs to boost the spirit. Before every match the grappelettes gave the wrestlers chewing gum and candy to show their spirit. Through hard work and a lot of time, the grappelettes were hostesses to regional high schools and gave them a warm welcome to the Regional Wrestling Tournament held at our school.

Although the wrestling team suffered defeats this year, the grappelettes always maintained spirit.

Powerful Blue Ridge District Champions

"We're Number 1" rang throughout Salem as the victorious Highlander football team returned from their triumph at Lord Botetourt. This year's team set numerous records including first wins over Covington, Alleghany, and Lord Botetourt, as they fought their way to Blue Ridge District Championship. Our team won its first opening game and then rolled forward for three straight victories over William Byrd, Covington, and Addison. The following two games were lost to rival Clifton Forge and 3-A Cave Spring. Our Metro-district clash with Jefferson ended in a scoreless tie. We then rejuvenated our forces and won our three remaining games with Alleghany, Fieldale—Collinsville, and Lord Botetourt.

Everyone was surprised over Glenvar's exceptional performance except the players, the coaching staff, and the spirited students and fans. The sports writers predicted a poor fifth for Glenvar in the tough Blue Ridge District, but the Highlanders paced all their competitors. The players attributed their success to the great coaching staff headed by Coach Kucer and the teamwork they exemplified. Although the teamwork was essential, Glenvar possessed many outstanding athletes and five of these were honored by serving on the Blue Ridge District Team. Daryl Alba made offensive guard and defensive middle guard. Sandy Hill and Buddy Kanode earned spots as defensive backs. Jim Mahala captured a position at defensive end while "Broadway" Joe Williams was picked quarterback of the team.

Glenvar's football team finally achieved the goal they so tenaciously fought for and conquered, Blue Ridge District Champions.

Best Record in J.V's Short History

1972 produced the best J.V. Football Team in Glenvar's short history. With a good quantity of ninth and tenth graders available for the first time, Glenvar recorded shutouts over Alleghany 14-0, Jefferson 6-0, and Liberty 6-0. Other victories recorded were against Covington 12-8, and Northside 14-12. The little Highlanders lost to three AAA teams, Cave Spring 28-8, Andrew Lewis 9-8 and Franklin County 6-0, finishing with a record of five wins and three losses. Standout players on offense were quarterback Vance Price, receivers Steve Pillis and Chris Clineville along with fullback Mike Pendleton. A tough defense was anchored by Dave Jones and Lynwood Twine at defensive ends, Jon Barger and John Jones at tackles, while Ken Dillon and Dennis Turner were hardnosed linebackers. Only the future holds the answer, but this year's J.V.'s should become the best GHS varsity team.

This year's Freshman football team was a hard working one. The new players learned basic concepts of high school football. These concepts proved to be a great help in the development of successful future football players. The freshman team proved to be a good advancing team. Although the team's record wasn't as good as the team had hoped it would be, the players worked very hard and the experience will guide them in years to come at G.H.S.

Key to Success Is Team's Unified Effort

The Glenvar Varsity Basketball Team performed with excellence this year and ended the season with an over-all record of 17-6. The winning season was attributed to the talents and desires of the players and Coach Davis. Tri-Captains Paul Tinsley, Ricky Crotts and Richard Waldron were examples of superior leadership and helped stimulate the team's morale. While each player was unique and possessed his own style, there were still several stand-outs. Richard Waldron had an extremely impressive year by breaking 1,000 points in his career, receiving the Sportsmanship Award at the Blue Ridge District Tournaments, and serving on the select All-Metro Basketball Team. Ricky Crotts was another scoring threat and always performed well. Jeff Rowe was a late comer, but ended the year in a fury with several high scoring games and vital rebounds.

Glenvar ended the regular season tied with Lord Botetourt for second place in the highly competitive Blue Ridge District with more wins than we had ever earned. We also won our first tournament game. Many juniors gained experience and built depth for next year's basketball team.

Their overall record of 4-14 was deceiving of the talents the boys exhibited later in the season. Of their four last outings they won three for a fantastic 75%. The team and coaching staff showed the spirit and determination that will become valuable in their varsity careers. It took most of the season to do it, but the J.V. team got it together.

Senior Mike Walton placed first in Blue Ridge District Tournament and Sophomore Steve Battle placed first in the 2-A State Wrestling Tournament. Several other wrestlers placed 2nd, 3rd, and 4th. The new coaches, Stan Parker and Tom Roth, experienced a new challenge being newcomers to Glenvar. Coach Parker worked mainly with the varsity team while Coach Roth worked hard with the junior varsity team. Next year promises to produce another exciting season.

Stamina and Endurance Are Required for Cross-Country

Five regular runners made up the G.H.S. Cross-Country team this year which had a winning 5-4 season. These five runners were Steve Carr, Jed Duncan, Bill Epling, Wendell Fagg, and Alan Blankenship. Ronnie Smith and Billy Thomas joined the team at mid-season, adding speed and points to Glenvar's performance.

Each meet consisted of one lap around the track and then running a course that took the runners through the woods to the practice field, the baseball diamond, down to the school, and then back to the track for another lap to finish.

Glenvar had an outstanding runner in Bill Epling who placed 9th at the Auburn Invitational. Mr. Richard Pitts was again the coach for the Cross-Country team.

Sports Teams Provide Girls With Opportunity to Compete

The girls' sports program proved very active at Glenvar this year. There was a varsity basketball team, senior high and junior varsity gymnastic team and also varsity and junior varsity volleyball teams.

The basketball and volleyball teams played all of the Roanoke area schools, while the gymnastic team competed with the teams from schools throughout southwestern Virginia. Lynn Mabry placed high for Glenvar in the annual gymnastic meet. The varsity basketball team also completed its most successful year. The realities of competition and physical development were realized by all participants within the girls' athletic program.

ACTIVITIES

A variety of clubs and organizations were offered to students at Glenvar. Although each organization was entirely different, they all shared the same goal of attempting to involve students in a particular activity.

Many hundreds of dollars were earned by the clubs and organizations so they were assured of financial stability. With this money they earned, banquets, community service projects, and trips were planned. All these activities accentuated the members' pride in their organization.

All the organizations enabled students to experience and learn the need for cooperation and responsibility. Any organization that did not possess cooperating and responsible members, did not function properly.

This year was a profitable year because many new and interesting organizations were established. These new clubs widened the choice of activities students could participate in. All organizations noticed the need for concerned, giving, members and thus recognized the importance of–SO MUCH TO SAY–SO MUCH TO GIVE.

Undertaken By SCA

The SCA began the year with ideas for new projects. At Christmas, a mailbox was placed in the lobby where students could mail Christmas cards to their fellow students free of charge. The mailbox was a great success, and Christmas cards from other schools were also mailed and delivered as part of a valley-wide project. The Christmas tree was purchased from the Glenvar Recreation Foundation and greatly added to the Christmas Spirit. The doors throughout the school were decorated by first period classes and clubs in an effort to spread the Christmas spirit. Prizes were given for the two best-decorated doors.

Student-exchange day was sponsored by the SCA again this year. With new officers, the Roanoke Valley High School Relations Council reorganized student-exchange day and combined Junior and Senior days together.

Glenvar Band Receives Many Honors

This year Glenvar's "Marching Green and Gold" received many awards for their talents. They were chosen first place in Virginia's Poultry Festival parade and they returned in May. Our band was named Best Marching Unit in the Salem Christmas Parade and second best over all. The Glenvar Band also played host to All-County Band this year for the first time. With the help of Mr. Wilber E. Grant and Keith Hartless, the band had ample leadership and a successful year.

New Routines Bring New Attractions for Viewers

This past year has been a great success for the lives of all the majorettes. The number for the first time was stretched to include nine girls whose smiles never diminished during the year. During the homecoming game, for example, the rain fell occasionally but the girls stood up with pride to present a fascinating performance for the spectators. Some of the other thrills included using flag batons, fire batons, and some dance routines which helped keep the attention of all the male admirers in the crowd. The majorettes also played in the concert band and displayed the pride that every band member possessed.

Glenvar Choir Sets New Atmosphere

Choir Officers: Larry Long, Treasurer; Debbie Twigg, Librarian; Vickie Leighton, Accompanist; Teresa Shaver, Secretary; Julie Shreve, Social Chairman; Charlene Fagg, President; Miss Booe, Director. Miss Booe troubles herself by thinking of the need of choir gowns for this year's large choir. Choir members find that another exciting period of singing has come to an end. Choir members: Row 1: Miss Booe, Larry Brufman, Tony Grim, Larry Pope, Donna Cowling, Edith Leffel, Dawn King, Darlene Dillard, Melinda Kessler, Donna Ratliff, Sabrina Hartman, Ann Bowman, Pam Scott, Debbie Redfield. Most of those singing voices we've heard this year were those of the members of the Glenvar High School Choir. Participating in assemblies and programs was the choir's major activity. Before the school, they presented a Christmas program and also presented one to the Veterans Hospital. The spring folk concert also turned out to be very successful.

Annual Staff Works With Limited Budget

Not only did the Thistle and Bagpipe experience financial instability, but the Annual did too. The Annual Staff had to work on a very limited budget which cramped their style.

Many new changes were introduced to the annual in that new lay-outs and captions were used. A new texture was also used for the cover which was more attractive and durable.

The staff, which consisted of twenty-five members, was divided into two categories. The copy staff was headed by editor Jackie Cockerham and the lay-out staff was headed by Tracie Bush.

For the first time Freshmen were allowed to apply for the staff. As a result, students gained new experience each year for a total of four years. The staff had early deadlines in an attempt to cut the cost of the Crusader. Many late nights were spent by the editors in an effort to meet these deadlines, but the time was well worth it.

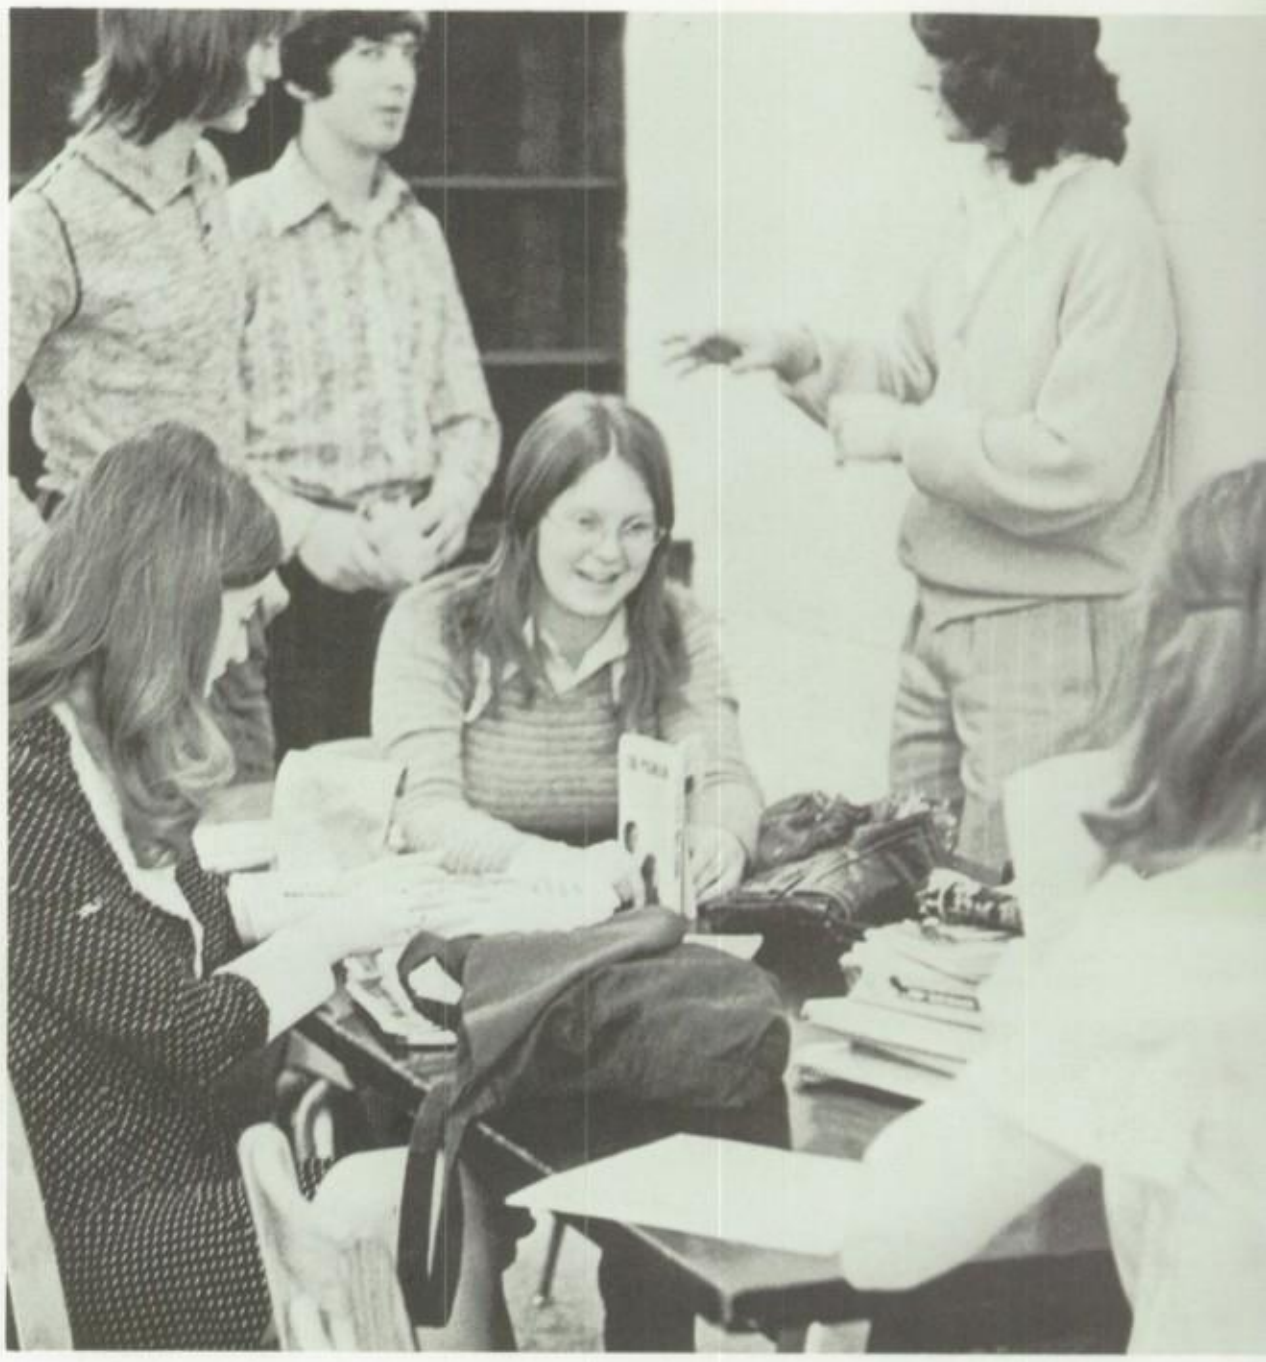
Thistle Plagued With Financial Problems

The Thistle Staff was continuously plagued with problems, but persevered with admirable courage. Early in the year, subscriptions were sold for the paper and the response was atrocious. Only one out of every ten students at Glenvar purchased a subscription. How could a staff function on a mere 10% of Glenvar's students?

The discouragement and futility the Thistle Staff experienced did not affect the quality of their work. Led by the ability of Editor Michele Akers, the Thistle produced an excellent paper. The articles included all activities that were of major interest to the students and faculty. Humor and gossip was evident in the Hootie-Doody column which hassled the private lives of many Glenvar students. Sports, art, assemblies, student teachers and much more was covered in the Thistle. Although the students did not show their appreciation to the Thistle, the Thistle showed its appreciation to Glenvar by its coverage of Glenvar's 1972-1973 school year.

Editor Michele Akers confers with Vickie Sweeney on a Thistle deadline. Staff members Mike Coleman, Randy Zimmerman, Michele Akers, Kelly Moore, Donna Goode, Dave Woodson, and Aileen Conner critically review the latest paper. Janet Woods, Karen Ratliff, and Sylvia Petrea take time out from their busy schedule. Under Michele Akers supervision, Donna Goode types copy. Miss Clayton supervises some comments in the Hootie-Doody Column. Dave Woodson and Rose Ann Caligan are deep in thought with new ideas.

Bagpipe Displays Students' Creative Ability



Members of the Bagpipe staff discuss new ideas for their magazine which will be distributed in May. Dean Martin and Marty Snortum read over a paper that is to be published. June Hickson proofreads a poem that was submitted by Sophomore students. Sponsor Miss Tabor confers with Dennis Cole and Karen Crockett on the Bagpipe. Cathy Sisson and Vicky Francisco work together to improve the Bagpipe. Lynn Mabry, Susan Huff, Debra Poff, Kim Martin, Susan Huff, June Hickson—Editor, Dennis Cole, Rene Hedge, Linda Cecil, Kathy Sisson, Miss Tabor—Sponsor, Janet Tingler—Art Editor, Karen Crockett, Marla Munn, Beaver Palmer, Darrell Holland, Marty Snortum, Dean Martin.

The Bagpipe staff is the creative vent for students literary and artistic ideas. Students may submit their works, and if the staff discovers a message, they publish them in their magazine. It contains a wide variety of themes from humor to concepts of death.

Led by Editor June Hickson and sponsor Miss Tabor, the Bagpipe staff published a remarkable magazine that contained the inner thoughts and motivations of the Glenvar crowd.

Pep Club Promotes Spirit Among the Student Body

The members of the Pep Club worked very hard to make this school year a successful one. They carried out many activities to promote spirit in the student body. Posters were made for the halls during football season to raise the spirit for our most victorious season. Many buses were provided to take students to the away football games to watch the Highlanders become Blue Ridge District Champions. They also entered a truck in the Homecoming parade and decorated a hall for basketball during Spirit Week.

The Foreign Language League taught the language students how to enjoy foreign food this year. They held a picnic at Mrs. Willis' farm, and French and Spanish food was served. The students collected and sold products at the DAR bazaar which was one of their money making projects for the year.

For the first time in Glenvar history, we received an exchange student. Horacio Chavaria came from Ecuador and he took Junior and Senior courses. The league also learned more about France. Mr. Frost from Patrick Henry High School came to a meeting and showed slides and gave a talk on France and their way of life.

Glenvar Student State Officer

The F.T.A. began their busiest and most productive year in October, presenting an assembly for the student body. The guest speaker was Miss Virginia, Dona Marie Pillow. The assembly was followed by the first of several teas given for the faculty. The first of two Student Teacher Exchange Days followed, giving F.T.A. members a chance to experience the real challenges and responsibilities of a teacher. Several members attended the State F.T.A. convention in Hampton, Virginia. Helen Ring was elected the Recording Secretary of '73-'74 at this convention. In the Spring, using money raised from bake-sales and stationery sales, trips to several colleges were planned to finish out the year.

Second Row: Miss Altizer, Sponsor, Valeri Scales, Helen Ring, treasurer, Lynn Mabry, secretary, Keith Hartless, President, Sue Reich, Vice-President, Cathy Richardson, historian, Rene Dalton, Nanette Shiflette, Miss Robison, Sponsor. "Our Future As Homemakers"

This year's F.H.A. had the theme, "Our Future as Homemakers". Two programs were presented each month. They included speakers on topics such as interior decoration and clothing. Members of the F.H.A. organized a hayride, and also a mother-daughter banquet in the Spring. Also, twice a month, a business meeting was held.

Being a member of the F.H.A. Federation kept Glenvar's F.H.A. informed of the activities of the surrounding schools. F.H.A. week, April 1-7, was held to highlight the activities of the year. This year's sponsors were Mrs. Cobble and Mrs. Fitzpatrick.

Interact Sells Doughnuts to Help Sponsor Foster Child

The Interact Club is a service organization formed to help the school and community. Every year the club has an international project. This year a foster child from Peru was supported by the Interact Clubs. The money for this project was raised by selling doughnuts in study halls, around the school, and at football games.

Honor Society Takes Trip to Washington

The Honor Society is made up of Juniors and Seniors with a 3.25 grade average or better. This year the society went in with the S.C.A. to send a basket of canned goods to needy people. They took a trip to Washington on May 4. New members were inducted in April.

Monogram Club Sells Refreshments at Home Games

Membership for the Monogram Club consisted of athletes who earned a letter. Athletic success was the goal and achievement of the members. From the money they earned, new letter jackets and athletic equipment was purchased. They gave Dr. Chu a plaque and donated fifty dollars to the Fort Lewis Rescue Squad for their help at all the games.

Science Fair Is Success

This year the Science Club had a new sponsor, Mr. Akers. All of the club members were members of Future Scientists of America and the Virginia Junior Academy of Science. They also attended the annual meeting of the Junior Academy.

Again this year, the Science Club sponsored a Thanksgiving Hop for the students at Glenvar. Later in February, they sponsored a Science Fair in which a lot of Glenvar students participated. Another project was to improve the nature trail at Glenvar. All of these projects combined to produce an effective year for the Science Club.

Science Club: Wanda Trumball, Ruth Hudson, Susie Brown, Helen Topper, Joe Hafey, Greg Ratliff, Mike Coleman, Jeff Dalton, Jeff Franco, Randy Mason, Mark Painter. Mr. Akers, David Hafey, Lynn Pedigo, Renee Dalton, Nanette Shifflette, Aileen Connor, Ricky Hill, Kelly Moore, Russell Clark. Science Club Officers: Secretary Aileen Connor, President Joe Hafey, and Treasurer Kelly Moore.

Paula Parker, Barbara Phlegar, Pam Carroll, Karen Ratliff, Miss Davis, Rhonda Gearheart, Teresa Collins, Vickie Marshall, Renee Dalton.

The Red Cross Youth was in its first year of organization. It was an affiliate of the National Red Cross and was consequently a service organization. Many of its members were interested in medically-related occupations, but this was not a requirement to be a member.

Their projects included a bake sale to help finance their activities, sponsoring a needy family at Christmas, and operating the Bloodmobile at Glenvar on March 9. They plan many more projects for next year and hope to have as successful a club as they did this year. The Red Cross Youth attended workshops that kept them "in the know" and convinced them that it feels good to serve!

Students and Teachers Have Learned Its Importance

In every facet of our school life, students and teachers alike have learned the powerful importance of speaking what they feel and giving of themselves to achieve a goal. We have seen the results that occur when people dissolve their fears of being involved and participate in an activity.

Teachers have learned if they try to make their classes interesting, then most students become interested. Students have learned if they voice their opinions and become active in the classroom and their studies, school "isn't all that bad". Athletes found that giving completely of themselves yields phenomenal results, as we saw our football and basketball teams produce their best seasons. Clubs and organizations have discovered that members are abundant when there is activity and not idleness. Everyone who has become involved and concerned with Glenvar has discovered the power of – SO MUCH TO SAY–SO MUCH TO GIVE.

The Yearbook Staff would like to thank everyone who helped produce and promote the 1973 Crusader. Mr. Cal Gibson, our indispensable friend and advisor; Paragon Press, our publisher; Mrs. Newell, our always concerned sponsor; the businesses and boosters which filled our advertising section; and the students who supported our efforts. We hope the 1973 Crusader conveyed this year as uniquely and realistically as possible.

Ten years from now, when you pick up this annual, you will have access to at least 15 new electric appliances that don't even exist today!

Electrical innovations will "make the scene" (as we say in 1973) to benefit health, education, industry and our social lives. You'll also see in the next decade more electronic equipment to purify, filter, recycle and generally clean up America.

Electricity is doing a lot of things for you now. It's going to do a lot more tomorrow. Our prediction: Life will keep on getting better — electrically.
